Victoria Veteran Leads Graduates From University

(See Page 11 for U.B.C. results)
War veterans who had previously attended Victoria College topped the lists of Vancouver Island students graduated today by the University of British Columbia.
Top student for the whole province is Harold MacLean, 31, veteran of 15 months overseas service with the R.C.A.F., winner of the M.B.E., and father of one child. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. MacLean, live at 1456 Gladstone Avenue. He will be awarded the Governor-General's gold medal.
This is the second time in three years that top honors have gone to former Victoria College students. Charles Maunsell won the medal in 1945.

Other prize and scholarship winners from this vicinity are:
David John Rose, 450 Grange Road, Saanich, veteran of overseas service with the Royal Canadian Artillery, who has been awarded the Convocation Prize.

Douglas Macaulay Strang, former R.C.A.F. flight lieutenant, mentioned in dispatches for distinguished service on the north Atlantic patrol, who won the Kiwanis Club gold medal. His father is James Strang, chief inspector of mines for the B.C. government here.

David Arnold Wilson, former navy lieutenant, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Wilson, 3133 Delta Street, who won the Alaska Pine Co. scholarship in forestry.

Marjorie Jean Wilson, Salt Spring Island, winner of the home economics prize.

Blanche-Petite Clayton, Victoria, winner of the British Columbia Sugar Refining Co. Ltd. scholarship in zoology.

John David Bosdet, former private in the tank corps who served several months in north-west Europe, who won the Transportation and Customs Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade prize for a report on air transportation.

TOOK TWO OTHER HONORS

Beside leading the 1947 graduating class, Mr. MacLean won the Lefevre gold medal and scholarship for chemistry and the Canadian Industries Ltd. Fellowship.

Runner up to Mr. MacLean was Gordon Eric Latta of Vancouver who won honorable mention and a special university prize. The university medal for arts and science went to Donald G. Brown of Vancouver as head of the humanities and social science group while Dorothy Montgomery MacLeod, also of Vancouver, won the Wilfrid Sadler Memorial gold medal for heading the class for the B.S.A. degree.

The university congregation ceremonies will be held at the university tomorrow afternoon. Many parents and friends of Victoria graduates are planning to attend.

Mr. MacLean has had a distinguished war and scholarship record.

He attended Victoria College for two years and then joined the air force to secure funds to continue his education. The war broke out while he was still in the air force and he served throughout the war, returning to Victoria in 1945 and proceeding to the University of British Columbia.

Last year he won a B.C. Sugar Refining Co. Ltd. scholarship. He is also an athlete, having played basketball here. The university career of Mr. Rose began at Victoria College in 1939. The following year he proceeded to the University of B.C. He joined the R.C.A. at mid-way in his university career, but returned to university in 1945. He is 24 years of age.

FORMER BANKER

Twenty-eight-year-old Douglas Strang, won honor standing at Victoria College in 1936 and then served six years with the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Victoria, Ladner, Whitehorse and elsewhere. "While serving with the bank he wrote his associated bankers' course and passed with honors."

Serving with the R.C.A.F. for 40 months, he was discharged in December, 1945, and proceeded to University of B.C. the following January.

David Wilson was born in Victoria 24 years ago and attended the Model School, Victoria High School and Victoria College. He participated in rugby, track and tumbling and in his second year at Victoria College was president of the Students' Council and captain of the rugby team. He joined the Canadian navy as a rating and graduated from Kings with his commission. He saw service with the Atlantic patrol. On discharge from the navy he resumed his studies at the University of B.C.

Mr. Bosdet was born in Zacatecas, Mexico, and went to Model School, Oaklands and Victoria High School before proceeding to Victoria College. He joined up in the Canadian army in 1944 and served overseas early in 1945, returning in August and proceeding to U.B.C. that fall. He is 23 years of age.

LONDON (AP)—The 15,000-ton whaling factory ship Balaena, which ran aground twice Tuesday in the Thames estuary, was refloated today.

Russia Attacks British Mandate Over Palestine

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (CP)—Russia today delivered a vigorous attack on Britain's administration of Palestine and demanded immediate termination of the League of Nations mandate.

Russia recommended creation of a dual Arab-Jewish state. The Soviet position was set forth by Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko as the extraordinary session of the United Nations' Assembly moved toward final action creating an 11-power Palestine inquiry commission.

He said Foreign Secretary Bevin admitted failure of the mandate as a solution for the Palestine problem. Several commissions had arrived at the same conclusion. The present situation in Palestine was a threat to peace. He asserted British troops were the enemy of both Jews and Arabs.

Gromyko's long speech in Russian followed the opening of the last-ditch Arab-country fight in the Assembly for immediate independence of Palestine.

It was a foregone conclusion, however, the Assembly would approve plans for an 11-member inquiry commission adopted Tuesday by the 55-member states meeting at Lake Success as the political committee.

WIDE SCOPE

These plans gave the inquiry group a free hand to consider the independence question on the same basis as all other possible solutions of the Holy Land problem.

The new Arab move was led by Dr. Fadhil Jamaly, Foreign Minister of Iraq, who announced he would vote against creation of the inquiry commission and said Iraq reserved the right to "take the attitude they chose to take" toward the investigating body.

Workers Blamed For Housing Lack

TORONTO (CP)—David East, an Executive of Housing Enterprises of Canada, Ltd., said today that "interference by trade unions, blatant laxness of the workers and an over-all cost increase of approximately 65 per cent" were responsible for a "lack" of homebuilding in Toronto. To build a four-room house or unit "would result in a forced rental of not less than $90 a month."

Greek Guerrillas Hit

ATHENS (AP)—The Greek press said today guerrilla forces had suffered 248 casualties in a new large-scale army offensive now under way in northern Greece. These reports contrasted sharply with an assertion by a general staff spokesman, who told a press conference Tuesday that no major operations were in progress.

Would Close Club

VANCOUVER (CP)—The management of the service club today was notified by Police Chief Walter Mulligan that he will seek to have its city license cancelled. The Service Club, officially known as Branch 2C, Hellenic Colonization Association, organized in 1941, was mentioned during the recent police investigation.

U.S. General Strike Reports Discounted

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—Reports that a 24-hour, country-wide general strike would be called May 21 to protest American labor legislation apparently had boiled down today to a hope by a New Orleans labor leader that such would be the case. Joseph P. Ryan, international president of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (A.F.L.), said the rumor was "entirely unfounded" and that the possibility of such action had never been mentioned by responsible labor officials.

Thieves Got Little From Ball Club Safe

Athletic Park outer office safe after it had been blown overnight by safe-crackers. Only $50 was secured from it owing to Athletics' business manager Reg Patterson, having sent the gate receipts from the night's game — around $1,000 — to the city police station for safe keeping.

The Victoria Baseball Club was saved from a loss of approximately $1,000 in cash last night through the regular practice of business manager Reg Patterson in turning the gate receipts, following a game, over to the city police station for safe keeping. Thieves broke into Patterson's office and blew the safe some time after midnight.

From the strong-box the safe-crackers only secured $50 in cash.

First to discover the break-in and safe-blowing was Tom Williamson, assistant to "Slim" Hunt, park caretaker, when he arrived for work this morning. Apparently the crash of the explosion went unnoticed by residents in the immediate vicinity. Detective Fearon Woodburn of the city detective department made a survey of the homes this morning. Detective Dave Donaldson also made investigations for fingerprints.

The new office, to the left of the main Caledonia Avenue entrance, was entered through a high-up rear window. Tools had been secured from the boiler room to pry the window open.

WORK OF EXPERTS

According to the detectives, the blowing has all the earmarks of being the work of experts. Nitroglycerine was used. While the safe door was badly twisted by the explosion, the outer office in which it was located was not damaged.

Churchill Sells Memoirs Of War For $1,000,000

NEW YORK (AP)—Life Magazine and the New York Times announced today that they had obtained United States publication rights for Winston Churchill's wartime memoirs, already written in large part by the former British Prime Minister.

The announcement indicated that the price was more than $1,000,000.

The memoirs are expected to consist of 1,000,000 words to be published in five volumes. They will begin with the years preceding the Second World War when Churchill opposed his government's appeasement policy and extend through the conflict. During most of the war, Churchill headed the British Coalition Government.

Life and the New York Times expect to begin publication of material from the first volume next January.

The Montreal Standard holds rights for publication in Canada of the memoirs.

Investigators Say Resentment Growing Daily

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—U.S. Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today that agitators will be jailed if they attempt to capitalize politically on the desperate German food crisis.

He said he had heard reports that the Communist Party is attempting to develop strikes in the United States occupation zone.

The U.S. military governor said he had no definite confirmation of the reports, but he told a press conference: "If any political agitator attempts to capitalize upon the serious food situation, and if he is caught, he will be put behind bars."

Clay's warning came as official U.S. investigators reported the wintertime resignation of the German people to food shortages is giving way to "an ugly mood of bitter resentment" toward the United States.

GRAIN SPEED-UP

Clay said measures would be taken to alleviate the food situation within a few weeks. He expressed hope the crisis would be eased by a speed-up in the shipment of grain from the United States, by a large-scale program of providing dried milk at an early date to supplement grains and by collections from the hoards of reluctant farmers.

The American investigators predicted that increased criticism of the Military Government could be expected from German politicians and the man in the street.

The new German attitude, Military Government sources said, was summed up recently in this statement of District Council Chairman Stieler of Fulda:

"The words of the Lord's Prayer, 'Give us this day our daily bread,' for the first time hold real meaning for the German people... never before has the question been raised by the survivors of a war whether life was still worth living or whether one could dare to bring children into this world."

The criticism and apathy are said to begin at the bottom, with the "common man." The average German first disbelieves conflicting official statements in the press.

SCAPEGOATS SOUGHT

Then he looks for scapegoats, blames the farmers for exploiting the sufferings of the city folk, and hurries charges of "stupidity and corruption" at food officials. Next he blames the Americans and asserts wildly that the United States aims to destroy the German people by organized starvation.

As they tighten their belts, the Germans lose whatever objectivity they regained after 12 years of Nazism, investigators reported. The average man's comment is:

"The Americans have promised us food, but how can we believe in American good will if promises are not kept?"

Britain Urges U.S. Send More Food To Avert Riots

LONDON (AP)—British government sources said today that Great Britain has urged the United States to speed grain shipments to Germany "if food riots and even more serious troubles are to be avoided."

Foreign Secretary Bevin and his advisers discussed for two hours what was called the "gloomy and difficult outlook."

The full cabinet is expected to tackle the problem tomorrow. A foreign office spokesman said Britain is not considering diverting grain supplies destined for the United Kingdom to Germany to relieve the shortage.

Bevin will make a full statement during a foreign affairs debate in the House of Commons tomorrow and is expected to admit the "possibility of serious food shortages in Germany during June and July. Informants said he likely will declare that substantial relief cannot be expected in the British zone of Germany before harvests of winter and spring-sown crops.

In a statement in Germany, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor, announced "a general agreement on all points" had been reached on the economic fusion of the American and British zones.

A Foreign Office spokesman said certain recommendations, the nature of which was not disclosed, had been decided upon to cope with the German food shortage.

Top-level British administrators were gathered here for the talks, the significance of their discussions sharpened by increasing signs of unrest from German authorities.

Lord Pakenham, minister responsible for affairs of the occupied territory, labelled the plight of Germans in Britain's zone "appalling."

Demonstrations in the British zone spread to the U.S. zone and there were reports from both London and Germany of urgent pleas to the United States for speedy grain and flour shipments.

Tied in with the problem was the question of merger of the British and U.S. zones.

Agreement on most phases of the merger has been reached, but technical angles of the plan now are overshadowed by the food crisis.

At Flensburg near the Danish border all firms closed Tuesday for a protest demonstration. Current official ration is 1,550 calories, but German consumers in many Ruhr cities have been receiving only about half of that level.

Marking the extension of demonstrations to the U.S. zone, some 700 workers at a ball-bearing plant in Stuttgart staged a sit-down strike Tuesday night in protest against failure to maintain the official ration scale.

Keep Own Citizens First, Senate Told

OTTAWA (CP)—Until means are found "to retain our ablest and brightest citizens, the looking for new immigrants to educate, train and lose it not so important," Percy Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress, said today.

Canada's two major labor federations, the Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor, presented briefs before the Senate committee on immigration.

E. A. Forsey, director of research for the C.C.L., said immigration was part of Canada's general economic problem and must be related to the government's declared aim of maintaining a high level of employment and income.

Mr. Bengough said his Congress "strongly advocates immigration should be handled exclusively by the government and not left to private enterprise," that there be exclusion of all races that cannot be assimilated, and that Canada accept "selected people only in such degree that they can be absorbed."

200 Rush From Hotel

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Two hundred persons, many in night attire, escaped from their rooms early today when fire of unknown origin burned out a section of the New Sherbrooke Hotel. There were no casualties. The damage is estimated unofficially at $75,000.

Bribery Charges Unfounded Police Chief Informs Board

Bribery or graft was non-existent in the department, Police Chief John A. McLellan emphatically told the Victoria Police Commission Tuesday in answer to allegations made by certain citizens to the board of the existence of bribery and misconduct amongst the personnel of the police department.

"I have discovered no reliable evidence of bribery or graft in the department," stated the police chief, who at the conclusion of his report requested a vote of confidence in the personnel of the department "to cement the confidence that for the past decade has existed between the police and the public."

The commission tabled the report for further study after Mayor Percy George had commended the chief for his thorough investigation into the matter. "I'm very glad to hear there are no grounds for any concern," said the Mayor. "The report covers all phases of the question."

In his report Chief McLellan stated that in the past whenever a complaint of misconduct on the part of any member of the force was brought to his attention, it had been investigated and dealt with in what he considered the proper manner.

"During my period of office as chief constable," he said "there have been cases where complaints of misconduct have justified drastic or disciplinary measures, and the officers involved have either resigned or have been suspended temporarily as a punitive measure. I have not considered it to the advantage of the city, or to the morale of the department, to publicize such cases."

MORALE IS HIGH

Praising the esprit-de-corps of the force, Chief McLellan said that for the past nine years the morale of the department had been high, in spite of the difficulties of the war years.

"It is an easy matter to destroy what has taken years to build up," he added, "but a difficult matter to rebuild on a foundation of mistrust."

He warned the commission that it would be faced with just that problem should a whispering campaign be allowed to undermine the police department.

He said he had been obliged to conduct his investigations without having any specific charges to guide him and without knowing against whom the allegations were directed.

"In justice to all I had to proceed as if every member of the department was under suspicion," he stated. "Generally speaking, while I have found the officers willing to assist me in this investigation, I cannot close my eyes and ears to the resentment they feel at being placed in a dubious position."

He said he prepared a questionnaire requiring each member to give certain information over his signature. This was for the purpose of bringing to light any knowledge of graft or bribery amongst the personnel, or illegal gambling condoned by the police.

In stating there was no evidence of bribery or graft, the chief constable disclosed that from information he received, he interviewed a person who claimed to have seen money pass between the police and the operator of a certain club in the city. The interview was recorded by a stenographer and signed by the person giving the information.

"Following up the lead, I discovered that the person in question was a criminal record and that the officers insinuated by him as having received bribes, were the officers responsible for his arrest and conviction," said Chief McLellan. "After questioning the officers concerned, I am satisfied that credence should not be given to the evidence."

With regard to illegal gambling in clubs, the chief said the gathering of evidence sufficient to convict an operator of a club of illegal gambling, had always been difficult.

"It is not sufficient for a man to think, or to know in his mind, that the law is being infringed," he stated, "he must have direct and positive evidence."

CARD CLUBS CLOSED

He said under his regime all "card clubs not operating under license had been closed and at the present time there were three places operating under license issued by the Registrar of Companies. They were: The Sports Club, the National Recreation Club and the Criterion Club."

"Plain clothes constables were keeping close observation on suspected gambling places," he stated in disclosing that during the past several years he had vigorously opposed applications for club charters.

Stating that he had reason to believe that a certain amount of unlawful betting was being conducted from private houses over the telephones, the Police Chief said. "We are constantly on the look-out for evidence to this effect, but the difficulties in these cases will be apparent to the Board."

With regard to gambling in Chinatown, the chief constable said that prior to his appointment a certain policy had been adopted toward gambling in Chinatown as the result of public opinion which protested against the continual raiding of Chinese premises.

"When I took office, I continued this practice of tolerating some gambling in Chinatown, amongst the Chinese only," he stated. "However, of recent years Chinese gambling has been gradually reduced to the point where very little fan tan has been played."

The chief said in his opinion the department was in good health morally, and he expressed the belief that in Victoria the police force consisted in the main of officers who were honest and eager to make the police force their life work.

"If we are to get the best from these men," he said, "it is absolutely necessary that they should feel confidence in their leaders and security in their future."

He added: "If it is known that any individual member of the department is breaking our moral code by accepting bribes, or condoning vice, then, for the good of all, such a member should be eliminated. But before this is done, a specific charge should be laid against such individual and he should be given the right to defend himself and be proven guilty before he is convicted of guilt."

Commission Wishes Police To Display War Decorations

The City Police Commission was strongly urged by Victoria Police Commission to encourage members of the police force who served in the armed forces to wear their war decorations. But veteran police constables seemed reluctant to display their decorations regardless of what their record was in the field of action.

The subject came up for discussion when Constables Lyle Somers and George Godsmark, both on probation, appeared before the commission to be informed that they had been accepted as permanent members of the police force.

When both constables were asked why they were not wearing their decorations, they seemed at a loss for an answer.

"I think they should be worn," said Mayor Percy George, who was of the same opinion as A. J. B. J. Gadsden that the decorations would help "to impress the public."

Police Chief J. A. McLellan explained that in the past the matter of wearing decorations had been left to the discretion of the members of the force.

At the same time the commission commended the chief constable for endeavoring to select only young men among applicants seeking admission to the City Police Force.

The commission felt that young men would fully benefit from the Superannuation Act, and that it would be for the good of all if men in the early twenties were admitted in the police force.

Carson Suggests Customs Easement

SPOKANE (AP)—Hon. E. C. Carson, Minister of Public Works for British Columbia, suggested Tuesday before the Spokane Chamber of Commerce an exchange of rights between Canada and the United States on two highways which would among other things make it unnecessary for through traffic to go through customs.

He referred to the fact that travelers on the Haines cutoff from U.S. territory to the connection with the Alaska Highway must pass through northwestern British Columbia.

At the same time, he said, British Columbia is anxious to build a victory highway which would avoid two summits in traveling across southern British Columbia. The proposal is for this road to run from Cascade, B.C., down through Washington State territory on a water grade and thence back into Canada at Patterson, B.C. Through travelers here again would have to pass through customs, this time United States

2 Fatal Accidents In City In April

Two fatal accidents in the city for the month of April were listed in the monthly report of the City Police Department which was tabled at a meeting of the Victoria Police Commission Tuesday.

Minor auto accidents numbered 24, while 21 persons were slightly injured. There were two inquiries and 10 inquiries into sudden deaths.

Washout Closes Alaska Highway

EDMONTON (CP)—The Alaska Highway was closed today to all traffic following reports of a wash-out on a section of road near the B.C.-Yukon border. It was expected traffic would be banned about one week while Canadian army engineers make repairs.

Spring break-up of waterways in the area south of Watson Lake was reported to have caused a wash-out at a point 570 miles along the road north of Dawson Creek.

A section from Mile 528 to Mile 575 will undergo repairs.

Income Tax Concession Made To Prairie Farmers On Deliveries

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons budget debate droned into its second week today after a sitting in which it swung from the fields of finance to Dominion-Provincial relations and from Maritime economy to co-operatives.

Seven speakers representative of all parties heard Tuesday included T. J. Bentley, C.C.F., Swift Current, Sask.; Rene Juras, Lib., Provencer, Man.; H. G. Archibald, C.C.F., Skeena, and C. E. Johnston, S.C., Bow River, Alta.

Highlighting the House opening was an announcement by Trade Minister MacKinnon that western wheat growers again this year will be allowed a special income tax concession in connection with deliveries. They may deliver between May 15 and June 30 and take cash settlement at their option in 1947, 1948 or 1949.

Finance Minister Abbott told the chamber the new taxation agreement with Nova Scotia contained nothing which had not been offered to other provinces which signed agreements with the Dominion.

Mr. Bentley said present taxation measures applying to co-operative enterprises, introduced in last year's budget, were "unjust" and called on the government to give passage to a Canadian Co-Operatives Act.

SUGGESTS BOARD

Mr. Juras suggested that Finance Minister Abbott, in framing the proposed new income tax act, consider making special provisions for western farmers. A board of arbitration also should be established and farmers should be allowed to class their breeding herds as capital assets for income tax purposes.

Mr. Archibald urged the federal government to take action to develop the northland areas of British Columbia and improve transportation facilities in his rural riding in that province.

Mr. Johnston asserted the budget had given no tax relief to the more than half the country's population who earned wages below the income tax paying brackets and at the same time called for higher old-age pension rates and an increase in the federal payment made to the blind.

City Police Fines Amount To $3,647

Fines collected by Police Court for the month of April totalled $3,647, according to the report of the City Police Department submitted to the Victoria Police Commission at a meeting Tuesday.

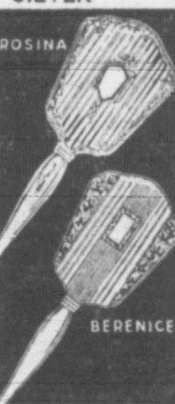

A total of 570 persons were fined, sixteen were sentenced to imprisonment without option, while one was committed to trial. The report revealed. One case was transferred to juvenile court.

Value of stolen property reported amounted to $10,393, but police recovered $7,644 of this amount.

Twenty-six persons were reported missing, but all were located and accounted for. There were 14 automobiles stolen and all were recovered.

Medico's Charge Britain Starving Receives Support

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Franklin Bicknell, nutrition expert who says England is starving to death, repeated his assertion Tuesday and won support of a colleague and a leading medical journal.

Dr. Bicknell challenged Food Minister Strachey in an open letter to tell housewives how they can provide each member of their family with 2,900 calories a day—900 more than the doctor in a much-discussed article published last week said the average person gets.

"Three housewives have, I know, written to the ministry to ask how they can obtain 2,900 calories," Dr. Bicknell said, "but in each case the answer has consisted of vague generalities. . . . There was no immediate comment from the Food Ministry on Dr. Bicknell's letter, which appeared in the 108-year-old Medical Press along with an editorial asking Strachey to publish menus showing how the average family can get an adequate diet.

ONLY IMAGINED

The journal said it would be "very sorry if Strachey's calories . . . should come to figure only on the menus of our frustrated imaginations."

Another nutritionist, Dr. Albert Howard, said in a letter to the same publication that "there is no doubt that this England of ours is slowly dying of starvation" owing to the lack of proteins.

Meantime cabinet ministers and top officials from the British zone in Germany held urgent consultations in preparation for expected far-reaching administrative changes in the hunger-plagued occupied territory.

"The situation is desperate and people are starving," was the tenor of messages from Germany.

Newspapers emphasized the increasingly serious situation in screaming headlines.

PATIENTS INCREASE

SOLINGEN, Germany (AP)—Human figures as emaciated as those of Buchenwald prisoners lie abed in the municipal hospital here—and in the hospitals of other Ruhr cities. These wraith-like patients are mostly old men, collapsed from meagre food rations.

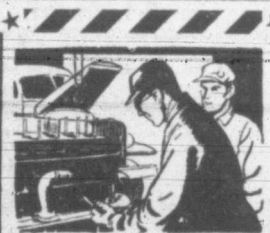

Allied reporters saw German men with arms and legs like sticks. Their faces, white as the bedclothing they lay upon, were haggard and wrinkled.

No Change Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—After long public hearings by the House of Representatives ways and means committee, Republican leaders indicated Tuesday they will make no immediate attempt to change U.S. reciprocal trade program.

Duplessis Charges Broadcasts By CBC Give Wrong Story

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Duplessis charged today that "there is no doubt that CBC broadcasts, in so far as Canadian government relations are concerned, are fabricated by centralizers or bureaucrats who simply and purely sacrifice the truth to their unrestrained centralization desires."

The Premier's remarks were made at a press conference during which he criticized "erroneous CBC news broadcasts," referring specifically to accounts of a textile strike at Lachute, Que., and to an account Monday night of Premier Angus L. MacDonald's statement on a financial agreement between Nova Scotia and the Dominion government.

Mr. Duplessis said he had read Mr. MacDonald's speech and its text "reveals that the news report given yesterday by the CBC news broadcaster was incomplete, tendentious and knowingly or otherwise does not present a true picture of the situation."

At Ottawa, A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC Board of Governors, commented: "It would appear that the CBC and the news agencies which provide the basis of CBC newscasts are too objective for Mr. Duplessis' taste."

Premier Duplessis charged trouble at Ayers Ltd. Woollens plant at Lachute, Que., "was inspired and directed by Communists."

Declaring the five-week strike for wage increases is illegal, the premier said at a press conference it became more and more obvious that trouble at Lachute is "desired and wished for, provoked and planned by Communists who wish to abuse the goodwill of the great majority of the working classes."

Except In B.C. Farmers Delayed By Late Spring

OTTAWA (CP)—Backward spring weather has delayed work on the land in all parts of Canada except British Columbia, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Tuesday in its first telegraphic crop report of the season.

On the prairies, spring seeding has been retarded as much as two weeks, but moisture conditions are generally adequate.

In Manitoba spring field work is well advanced although somewhat behind the stage reached at the same time last year. Saskatchewan reports seeding operations delayed approximately two weeks due to above-average winter snowfall and continued cool weather, while in Alberta seeding is later than usual, with wheat seeding well under way in most districts and coarse grain sowings just starting.

Windsors To Arrive In England Friday

LONDON (AP)—The Duke of Windsor, unemployed since he left the governorship of the Bahamas, will arrive in England Friday as a private citizen, more eager than ever, his acquaintances said Tuesday, to take a government job and aid his country in her current economic trouble.

The Duke and Duchess will arrive without fanfare aboard the Queen Elizabeth. Friends said they plan to stay several weeks at the country estate of Mrs. Frank Parkinson, widow of a wealthy electrical goods manufacturer.

The Duke is expected to pay his customary visit to Queen Mother Mary on her 80th birthday May 26. Court circles said they have no knowledge of plans for the Duchess, who never has met the Queen Mother.

English Cricket

LONDON (Reuter)—South Africa defeated Surrey at the Oval Tuesday by 115 runs in an exciting cricket match that saw Surrey go out for 167 runs in its second innings.

South Africa scored 83 runs in its first innings and 311 in its second. Surrey scored 112 in its opening bats.

County cricket: Middlesex vs. Somerset—Somerset won by one wicket.

Kent vs. Derbyshire—Kent won by 100 runs.

Northamptonshire vs. Warwickshire—Warwick won by nine wickets.

Hampshire vs. Sussex—Hampshire won by 86 runs.

Worcestershire vs. Leicestershire—Worcester won by 150 runs.

Cambridge University vs. Essex—Match drawn.

Parksville Trade Board Seeks More Care In Freight Handling

PARKSVILLE—A. E. East, R. W. Primmer and V. O. Erikson were appointed by the Parksville Board of Trade meeting Monday evening as delegates to attend the convention of Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island at Courtenay, June 24-25.

They will present a resolution stressing need for more care by freight and steamship lines in handling consignments. The resolution will ask that claims be handled more quickly. It will be noted that claims for breakage take about six months for settlement at present.

The board decided to endorse British Columbia protests against the Railway Association of Canada's request for a 30 per cent increase in freight rates. Decision was made after reading a letter from C. W. Brazier of Vancouver who with C. H. Locke, K.C., has been presenting British Columbia's case at Ottawa. The board noted an increase in rates would apply to freight lines on the island.

Letters will be sent from the board to the Parent-Teacher Association, Farmers' Institute, Mount Arrowsmith Branch, Canadian Legion and the Parksville Commission asking support in having the consolidated school for District No. 69 at Parksville instead of Qualicum. The district covers the area from Deep Bay to Nanosee and the board considers the larger population in the Parksville area the chief reason for building the school here.

Another letter to the commission will ask that the speed limit of 25 miles an hour along the Island Highway be extended through the residential as well as business district.

At the request of the Qualicum Beach Board of Trade it was decided to write Minister of Public Works at Ottawa and J. L. Gibson, district M.P., supporting the movement for a breakwater at Qualicum Beach.

Donation of $25 to community hall fund was approved.

Poultry Meetings At Nanaimo, Royal Oak June 5

NANAIMO—W. A. Brown, director of the Poultry Division at Ottawa, and Norman Shulz of Brantford, representing the Ontario Poultry Industries Committee, will address a meeting arranged by the B.C. Poultry Industries Council, at Nanaimo, on the afternoon of June 5, in Eagles' Hall.

They will speak in the Institute Hall at Royal Oak at 8 the same evening. Mr. Shulz is one of the largest poultry producers in Canada.

Duncan To Discuss Pasteurized Milk

DUNCAN—Question of the city's milk supply will be discussed at a meeting Friday night, planned by the Provincial Government Milk Board, to be held in the K. of P. Hall.

The city council, in session here, expressed itself in favor of permitting citizens to order either pasteurized or raw milk, whichever they prefer. The health unit advised the council they will probably have to vacate their present quarters in the near future.

A petition was received from property-owners asking for a 5-foot sidewalk between Jubilee and Government Streets. A plan of the proposed alterations to the fire hall was referred to the fire wardens for study.

There was discussion over the proposed installation of parking meters in the city, and the council, favoring this, and will take the necessary steps in the matter. Accounts totaling $10,505.90 were passed for payment. Mayor J. C. Wragg was in the chair.

Sports Day July 1 At Ganges Harbor

GANGES HARBOR—Annual sports meet will be held July 1 in the school grounds at Ganges Harbor, it was decided at an executive meeting of the Salt Spring Island Athletic Club, in Mahon Hall here.

Charles Lees reported the sum of $70 turned over to the funds from a recent entertainment. Harry Nichols, chairman of the sports committee, announced that a girls' and boys' softball team had been formed, with practices held every Sunday afternoon in the school grounds at Ganges and at Shaw's Field, Fulford. The teams would welcome a challenge to play any visiting teams, he said.

Mrs. W. Redding resigned from the social committee. Harold Day, president, was in the chair.

Lady Minto Hospital Has Successful 'Day'

GANGES HARBOR—More than 300 people visited the Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital, on Hospital Day last week at Ganges Harbor, Salt Spring Island.

Guests were received by Mrs. B. Peterson, matron; Mrs. W. Hastings, president of the board; and Mrs. J. Dewar, president of the W.A. Mrs. J. Kelsey and Mrs. D. Phillips received the gifts which included glassware, china, linen, groceries and materials, as well as cash donations.

Tea was served at small tables on the verandah, under convership of Mesdames G. St. Denis, W. M. Palmer, H. C. Carter and H. Noon. The staff assisted in serving. A stall of baby woolens was in charge of Miss M. Lees. Mrs. N. Hawkins gave tea-cup readings and contests were in charge of Mrs. V. C. Best and Mrs. C. Trafford.

King Acknowledges Greeting Of People

LONDON (Reuter)—The King sent a message to Parliament Tuesday expressing his thanks and appreciation for greetings extended to the Royal Family from both Houses after they had arrived back from their tour of South Africa.

The message: "We shall always remember the wonderful and inspiring welcome which we received and the warmth of the greetings which were extended from all parts of the Commonwealth to our beloved daughter, Elizabeth, on the occasion of her 21st birthday. We have been greatly touched by the reception we have received on our return to this country."

IN THE AFFIRMATIVE

THE Western Allies, while doing what they can to relieve the food crisis in the American and British zones of Occupied Germany, will be more concerned about the possible uses which Communism may make of the present opportunity than over German man-in-the-street charges that the democracies intend to wipe out the entire nation through systematic starvation. There will be full sympathy for the German men, women and children who are existing for the time being on a food ration which is not adequate to sustain full health. But in this connection it will be remembered that additional medical opinion has been expressed in Britain to support Dr. Franklin Bicknell's assertion that the population of that island, too, is "slowly...starving to death."

The present German straits are not the result of their defeat in the war. There is no diabolical plot among the victors to retaliate in kind for the "death through malnutrition" treatment the Nazis gave to more than 2,000,000 European Jews. The present food emergency is felt by victor and vanquished alike, as far as the European area is concerned. And it is the direct result of the war which the Germans under Hitler precipitated.

According to a news dispatch, the German district council chairman of Fulda has remarked in an official statement—"Never before has the question been raised by the survivors of a war whether life was still worth living or whether one could dare to bring children into this world."

For seven years, while the tramp of Nazi jackboots echoed around the globe, millions of people asked themselves that same question. For countless hundreds of Europeans who committed suicide to escape being murdered, the answer was a definite "No." For millions, had the Nazis triumphed, the answer would be the same today. The German people, despite their present difficulties, might well give thanks that their answer can still be "Yes."

MISS MARY LAWSON

THE DAYS LONG BEFORE THE needy in Victoria received the benefits of a highly organized professional social welfare service, Miss Mary Lawson brought to those in distress the succor and comfort available from the old Friendly Help Association. As a volunteer worker she went about this city distributing the little that often meant much to people in straitened circumstances, and through her ministrations despair and near tragedy were frequently averted. Hers was a pioneer work, cheerfully assumed and carried out with a big heart that won her many friends among those who were assisted and many supporters among those who had the means to help the less fortunate.

Few awards have given satisfaction to so many people as did that bestowed upon Miss Mary Lawson when she was chosen to receive the gold medal for outstanding citizenship. Nor was appreciation of her services limited to purely local circles. In 1934 she was honored with the decoration of the M.B.E., civil division, in recognition of her public service.

At 86, this highly revered Victoria woman has gone to her rest. The memories she leaves become a fitting epitaph to her unselfish life.

THAT MAN SHOULD NOT PERISH

THERE IS A SENSE OF ULTIMATE fate—the preordained, inexorable quality of Greek tragedy—in contemplating the plight of the North American whooping crane, whose breed has dwindled to a known population of 27. This tall white-plumed bird with the brick-red head and black-tipped wings now faces extinction. It is nearing the end of the one-way road down which have gone countless inhabitants of the world—the dinosaurs and other prehistoric creatures, and in more modern times, the passenger pigeons which only a few years ago were seen in untold thousands throughout the eastern states of North America.

Few men, and certainly few pigeons, could have realized 40 years ago that the passenger pigeon would soon become extinct. They were seen everywhere in tremendous flocks, sometimes darkening the sky. Man could kill and kill, and never reach the end of them. But the last passenger pigeon on the face of the earth died in a Cincinnati zoo in 1914. Of the 27 whooping cranes believed to exist, only seven pairs are known to be mated. An expedition of United States ornithologists is now being prepared to try to find the seven nests "somewhere in Saskatchewan" in order to make a photographic record of the vanishing line.

Nature is full of instances in which the activities of man have resulted in extinction for certain species of living creatures. There is a sort of cosmic dread in the words "the last of its kind in all the world," a fear of the ultimate in non-existence—the closing out of a chapter in creation, never to be revived by any conceivable means. But the philosopher may well ponder—is not man himself on the verge of such a fate?

No orgy of slaughter of passenger pigeons such as took place a few years ago, no man-made disturbance of the haunts and habits of the whooping crane, can compare with the slaughter and disturbance with which man has fouled his own environment and threatened his own existence. The engineers who blew up the island of Heligoland recently to destroy it as a fortress were careful to frighten away the colony of birds before the explosion could harm them. There was no such warning as a rule when man was the target for his own explosives. Mere numbers do not spell safety where nature is concerned, for teeming populations can pass from the face of the earth and leave scarcely a trace. The natural law is inexorable and thorough. On the brink of the atomic age, man might well pause now and heed its implications.

ULTIMATE OBJECTIVES?

MR. HENRY WALLACE'S PROPOSAL, enunciated recently at Cleveland and brought forth again at Minneapolis Monday night, that Russian demands for huge reparations out of German production should be assuaged instead by a large loan through the United Nations, is scarcely calculated to inspire support from the people—mostly American taxpayers—who would have to provide the money. Nor has the one-time vice-president of the United States yet proved that the results achieved by his plan would meet all the requirements of the present international situation. Few on this side of the Atlantic will quarrel with his premise that Soviet insistence on taking huge reparations payments from current German production will make the Reich a "cancerous plague spot." But there will be considerable questioning of his suggested remedy.

Payment from the revenue of German industry of the large sums which Russia asks would, in the opinion of British and American economic experts, seriously cripple the recovery of this important industrial core of Europe, and would result eventually in merely drawing off the money which the western allies are pouring into Germany to relieve its distress. The Wallace proposal would in a sense short-circuit this, by letting Russia receive the funds directly in the form of a loan. If this were a "loan" which had to be paid back, there are some doubts that the Soviet would fall in with such a suggestion.

However, a more fundamental obstruction lies in the clash of ideologies which cannot be divorced from any consideration of United States or British relations with Russia. Americans or Britons, called on to vote large sums of money or credit for the use of Russia, whose losses in the war admittedly run into astronomical figures—would still not be satisfied in their minds as to the ultimate objectives of the Communist state. They had no reservations during the war, when their armies, navies, and air forces fought in a common cause. But with the danger of Hitlerism past, Russia has indulged too much in iron curtains and Asiatic tactiturnity to instill any confidence in the western world.

We have Premier Stalin's pronouncements—repeated several times—that the Soviet desires only to co-operate in mutual peace with the West. But they are inevitably followed by more active evidence that the Communist Party is pursuing its own definite plan—whatever that may be. The credo of Capitalism does not call for the destruction of Communism in Russia; it asks only that the Soviet refrain from trying to put more and more sections of the globe behind the economic barrier which cuts off normal trade with the rest of the world. The credo of Communism, on the other hand, by the nature of its origin and essential doctrine, calls for the Party to try to win over, by undermining or by force, as much of the capitalist world as it can. Until this fundamental issue can be clarified at the world's conference tables and a frank agreement reached, there will be fear and lack of confidence on both sides, and these are insuperable impediments to achievement of a world of peace and prosperity.

SOWING FROM THE AIR

THE USE OF AN AIRPLANE TO SOW wheat on an English farm has been declared a success, and the pilot of the test aircraft, Sqdn. Ldr. James Nelson, D.F.C., says he is "completely sold" on this revolutionary method of seeding. As mentioned in these columns some time ago, the wheat was fed through the bomb bay of a light plane as it sped above farmland too wet to permit the weight of a tractor.

Nelson claims that not 20 pounds of seed were wasted out of the four tons that have been used in tests, and that the seed can be placed "within inches" of the required spot if the wind does not exceed 30 miles per hour. The interest for Canadians, apart from the ingenuity displayed by British farmers in overcoming flood conditions, lies in the possibilities of application to the great wheatlands of the Dominion. Aerial crop dusting and similar operations already have become common, and prairie agriculturalists will follow with interest the further developments of this new procedure.

If he jumps up and cracks his heels together four times, he is a rube; if he crosses his feet ten times, he is a great ballet star.

Up In The Air

By PETER EDSON from Washington
HALF A DOZEN OF the world's leading authorities on helicopters had a bull session with Washington aviation writers the other night and, just as you'd expect, the talk all went right up and hovered in mid-air all evening.

Only man who kept his feet on the ground, was Igor Sikorsky, Russian-born inventor of the "heel-co-peter" as he used to call it. He's still an enthusiast about the future for his invention, but he admits it has definite limitations—150-mile-an-hour cruising speeds and useful loads of from two to 20 persons.

Best story about Sikorsky goes back to the days of his early experiments for United Aircraft. He used to take movies to record his progress. It was noticed, however, that while his films showed the first models flying up, down, sideways and backwards, they did not fly forward. When Sikorsky was asked about this little detail he shook his head sadly and said in his beautiful accent, "I know. This is the one thing we have not yet solved."

JUST TO SHOW HOW MUCH progress there has been since then, get a payload of some of the screwball things the egg-beater designers of today talk shop about. R. W. Frewitt of Philadelphia, president of the American Helicopter Society, told with a rotary motion of his tongue in his cheek about the idea of lifting straight up in the air with its windmill contraption, then turning it at a 90-degree angle and proceeding horizontally at high speeds, using the rotor as a propeller.

Engineers say it can't be done because of the different characteristics of the prop and the rotor. But it's fun to talk about.

WELCH POGUE, FORMER Civil Aeronautics Board chairman and now secretary of the Helicopter association, told about a man on a train, riding by the Piasecki helicopter plant in Sharon Hill, Pa., and seeing a two-rotor job, in flight.

The man got off the train at the next stop, came back and demanded to buy one, immediately. Seems he had a contract to paint a tall factory chimney. His idea was to stick a painter on a plank stuck out the cabin door, run the helicopter up one side of the chimney and down the other and so spray-paint the smokestack.

That brought the talk around to real, practical uses of the helicopter. The authority seemed to be Lou Leavitt of Camden, N.J., who operates a fleet of eight helicopters for hire and is having his troubles making both ends meet. In his best month he took in $20,000, but still lost money. Operating costs are higher for small planes.

LOU LEAVITT HAS, however, done all kinds of jobs. Surveying a Louisiana oil field. Hauling Governor Driscoll and Sen. Alexander Smith on their political campaign last winter in New Jersey. Delivering parcels to 55 Connecticut towns in three and a half hours to advertise a Hartford department store's anniversary. Landing Santa Claus in Allentown, Pa., on a small platform surrounded by hundreds of excited, screaming kids without anybody getting hurt. "But for a moment," he said, "I wished Santa Claus was back on his reindeer."

Leavitt finds another great drawback. "If you're eating soup near where a couple of helicopters land or take off," he says, "the soup gets pretty gritty."

COL. H. E. GREGORY, Army Air Forces expert on helicopters, took off on more bizarre flights of fancy in speculating about future military applications of the windmills. With deadpan seriousness he talks about laying signal corps wire from a helicopter—even digging holes and planting the telephone poles.

Rear Admiral A. M. Fride, new chief of Naval Aviation, said that on recent fleet maneuvers in the Caribbean, he found that the helicopter assigned to his flagship, the Leyte, was quite useful in getting the admiral ashore for cocktails. Lesser braid which had to depend on the barge for trips ashore usually arrived soaking wet.

REAL ENTHUSIAST in the business is young F. N. Piasecki, whose engineering firm has been working with helicopters since 1940. His twin-rotor model, built to carry one-ton loads for the Navy, has great possibilities.

Piasecki says that on his drawing boards is a new model to weigh 17 tons and be the equivalent of the DC-3 as an aerial workhorse. It is designed to cross the ocean or fly halfway across and back on aerial rescue missions. Piasecki predicts "50 mile speeds. But the helicopter age, with one in every backyard, does not yet seem to be just around the corner. Sikorsky says that the family helicopter, selling for $5000 or less, may be 10 years or more off. Present costs are around $30,000.

WALT BONNEY, speaking for Bell Aircraft, said his company has made great progress in simplifying controls, but they have decided "they can't bring out a model for grandma this year."

Quoting

Brave men do not belong to any one race or country. I respect bravery wherever I see it.—President Truman.

"My country, right or wrong," may have a glorious ring in wartime, but how hollow it sounds in a civilized society, and what an invitation to chaos it would constitute if adopted universally. Arthur Sweetser, Washington U.N. office chief.

In The Balance

The Consumer—A Humbler Creature

The Times of London

THE REASONS for which children go on strike (such as dislike of cabbage, church, or the repulsive face of some adult whose hand the child is called upon to shake) are often just as good, to say the least, as those which actuate their elders; nor are the convictions held by strikers in the nursery or the school-room held less passionately or proclaimed less loudly than those which from time to time bring their fathers' labors, and a good deal else besides, to a temporary standstill. The trouble, fortunately, about most children's strikes is that they are not well organized and, indeed, often are not organized at all.

INFANTILE UNREST
This circumstance alone would render noteworthy the outbreak of what should presumably be called infantile unrest in Canada which was reported the other day by our Ottawa correspondent. From coast to coast of that Dominion the children have been protesting against the high price of chocolate bars and soft drinks. Processions, placards, and slogans have publicized the campaign, but the most effective part of it seems to have been a boycott of shops where the prices were considered to be too high.

Yet these poor homunculi once had power. The meanest housewife was a patroness in her own right, the owner-driver of the smallest car had a whole industry competing for the privileges of replacing it. It is our boast that we can take it; but it was

In other words, a consumers' strike.

Most people will read of these doings with envy. The consumer, it was once believed by those who supplied us with the necessities and luxuries of life, is always right. But that was a long time ago. Now the consumer is extinct in these islands (though migrant representatives of the species from other lands are still occasionally identified in the decoys at Olympia and elsewhere).

HAS NO RIGHTS

The consumer's place has been taken by the consumer, a humbler creature altogether, a point with significance but no magnitude on a graph which is generally falling, a cipher who has no rights but is sometimes, in the jargon of his rulers, "entitled to concessions," a colorless organism whose preferences may provide sport for the statisticians but whose direct and most primitive needs alone need to be taken into account by those who supply them.

Yet these poor homunculi once had power. The meanest housewife was a patroness in her own right, the owner-driver of the smallest car had a whole industry competing for the privileges of replacing it. It is our boast that we can take it; but it was nice when we could take it or leave it. This choice, and all that it implies, is no longer open to the consumer. There may be a certain dour, self-righteous satisfaction in renouncing tobacco, but it can in no sense be described as an exercise of the consumer's privilege. It is the sense of this privilege, of the right to impress our own needs and tastes on those who supply the things we buy, that makes us feel wistful when we read of a consumers' strike.

MINOR FLURRY

Degraded though our status is, we ought, we feel, by a concerted refusal to purchase whatever is inadequate in quantity or quality, to be able to bring about an increase in the former or an improvement in the latter. This, alas, is an illusion. What little there is, if some were to leave, others would take; and if all were to leave it, nothing would happen except a minor flurry among the statisticians. Never mind. The consumer—infallible, glib, wayward, and proud—has had his day. The consumer's is yet to come, and though he seems a puny fellow now we may be sure that, when things are normal again, the spang-e-man will be all the more arbitrary, exigent, and suitable for his long and harrowing ordeal.

The Disease Of Hunger

From the New York Times of May 9.

WHEN a reputable British physician states in a reputable British medical journal that the British, as a nation, are "dying from lack of crude calories" he is evidently aiming to get attention, and Dr. Franklin Bicknell did get it. He told this newspaper's reporter, Charles E. Egan, that he had deliberately written in a "flamboyant" style because he was sure he was right and he thought the public entitled to know what was happening to them. His figure of an average individual consumption of 2,100 calories a day may be too low. John Strachey, Minister of Food, says it is. But Lord Woolton, former Minister of Food, now a member of His Majesty's opposition, replies that the food crisis "will reduce the physical powers of the country to work and seriously increase the unhappiness and weariness which anyone with eyes willing to see can observe on the faces of the British public."

A Government spokesman, Lord Huntingdon, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Agriculture, yesterday described last winter's floods and frosts as "a major, gigantic disaster" and predicted shortages of potatoes and vegetables.

Partisanship may argue as to the cause, extent and cure of these shortages, but they do exist. Hunger is like one of those endemic diseases which seem to slumber in remote regions for long periods of time, then start on a march around the world.

Hunger has spread during and after the Second World War, from India and China to Russia and the Balkans and into parts of western Europe. Hamburg, for instance, is expected to put on today the greatest hunger demonstration yet staged in postwar Germany. Now the shadow hangs over Britain.

It would be wrong to describe Britain's situation as desperate. If the British nation can be said to be "dying" for lack of fats and proteins, on a caloric intake of 2,100 a day, what of the American zone in Germany, with 1,550, Austria with 1,550, Spain with 1,400 to 1,600, urban Poland with 1,200 to 1,400, India with still lower allowances in many areas, China with millions of people starving and millions more eating less than 1,000 calories a day? What of Greece and the "deficiency areas" of Yugoslavia? What of Rumania, on the verge of famine, which yesterday was reported sending 400 carloads of flour to Soviet forces of occupation in that country? What of Russia itself? These are hungry years, except in favored countries like our own. Two billion people beat against the barrier of four billion acres of usable land, much of it unsuitably and wastefully tilled.

PRODUCTION CURTAILED

But if Britain is not a famine country it is a country in which lack of proper foods is curtailing production. If the need is worse elsewhere the curtailment is even more drastic. The United States has done much in shipping food abroad. It must do more, selling for cash where it can, for credit where it must, on some sort of lease-lend arrangement where no more is possible, giving relief where there is no other recourse.

We cannot live to ourselves alone. We cannot prosper in an unprosperous world. We cannot feast if our neighbors are hungry. If we want down our relief obligations, as 195 members of the House of Representatives recently voted to do, we may hasten the day when there will again be need of wholesale relief here at home.

As the May Queen campaign is run primarily as a source of revenue for the May 24 celebrations, and inasmuch as money so raised is used for the entertainment of citizens and not for any individual, we felt that this method was honorable and fair.

Having of necessity canceled the drawing, we would appeal to all Scots and their friends to give us their continued support on behalf of our candidate. We stand ready to refund the purchase price of the tickets to those who request this, on application to 716 Yates Street. Unclaimed money will be turned over to the Queen Alexandra Sororium.

GLEN C. TWAMLEY, 622 Barton Road, manager of the Scottish Candidate.

It is curious that hundreds of women should be drawing unemployment insurance when there are hundreds of jobs open at high wages in household service. Somewhere we have lost our sense of proportion and have gained, and not to our credit, a feeling that to be paid for washing dishes and making beds, for preparing meals and keeping an eye on the children, is a disgraceful business unless one marries into it.

ROMANCE DISAPPEARED

Letter to The Times of London

The trouble of domestic service is not one of status or of wages, but of boredom. Wages may be doubled and status indefinitely raised, but boredom will remain. Who can nowadays afford to maintain a household large enough to allow of the pleasant companionship and innocent flirtations which were possible in the spacious days of old? Must domestic service be increasingly reserved for those unsocial young people who prefer solitude? What is the answer?

STUCK IT OUT

Australian News Letter

Mrs. Patrick Murphy, who shared a $25,000 sweepstake prize with her husband, cleaned floors as usual in a Brisbane office the day she got the news. "I cleaned these rooms all through the war when help was hard to get, and I wasn't going to let the people down this morning just because we've won $25,000," Mrs. Murphy said.

"But I am not taking any pay for my work today."

So this winner of a fortune got down on her knees with her bucket and mop and kept faith with an employer, who, she says, was "always good and considerate."

Her main complaint was that she could not buy a new dress because she had no coupons.

NEGRO COLLEGE

Washington Post

The 33 private colleges affiliated in the United Negro College Fund have embarked on their fourth nation-wide drive for contributions to help in carrying on their work of developing Negro leaders and teachers. They aim this year to raise $1,300,000 to be used for teaching, salaries, student aid, equipment and maintenance. It is no vast sum as college endowments are reckoned nowadays. Yet with just such slender finances, these institutions have managed in the past, by virtue of their frugality in administration and the consecration of their faculties, to perform near-miracles in education. No doubt, a peculiar passion for learning and a singular sense of opportunity on the part of their student bodies have also had a great deal to do with their accomplishments.

Are We Forgotten?

By HARRY P. HODGES
From Ottawa

This is one of those "briefs" which newspapermen are tempted to write when they are trying to marry business to relaxation. They invariably succumb to traditional temptation to go to work on the slightest provocation.

When in Toronto a couple of weeks ago, I consulted an array of telephone directories in my hotel to find a Victoria address. The printed list of volumes certainly proclaimed that Vancouver and Victoria directories were bound in one volume. So they had been. But some destructively-inclined soul had carefully torn out all the Victoria pages. It was not important as it happened. I phoned a former Victorian, now a confirmed Torontonian, and obtained the desired information.

When I required another telephone number for a Saanich friend now in Canada's national capital, I naturally visited the telephone stand in this city's world-renowned caravansary. However, not only did I not find a Victoria directory, but, instead, I found the latest Vancouver volume, and, to my chagrin, discovered in the printed list of directories available no mention whatever of the capital city of the fair province of British Columbia.

Question: When will some people realize that it is about time to describe the breadth of Canada in terms of Victoria to Sydney and not Halifax to Vancouver?

Beef Upside-Down Pie

1½ cups flour
2 tps. Magic Baking Powder
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. celery salt
¼ tsp. white pepper
5 tbs. shortening

¾ cup milk, or half milk and half water
¾ cup sliced onion
1 can condensed tomato soup
½ lb. ground raw beef

Sift together flour, baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, celery salt and pepper; add 3 tablespoons shortening and mix in thoroughly with fork. Add milk and stir until blended. Melt remaining two tablespoons shortening in 9" frying pan, and cook onions until soft. Add tomato soup, remaining ½ teaspoon salt and ground meat; bring to boil. Spread baking powder mixture on top of meat mixture and bake in hot oven at 475° F. for about 20 minutes. Turn out upside down on large plate. Serves 8.

Students Discuss Political Issues At Kiwanis Club

Three young American students, members of the Women's Discussion Group of the University of Washington, were guests of the Victoria Kiwanis Club Tuesday. The girls presented American views of the present struggle between Democratic and Communist elements.

Joyce Taylor introduced the topic by reviewing existing conditions throughout the world today. She mentioned many points over which the two factions disagreed.

She said the basic issue between the United States and Russia was one of ideology.

Dolores Decker recommended that action should be taken against the Communists.

She charged that Russia was carrying out too great an expansive policy. "America must check this Russian expansion before the whole world is dominated by Communism."

She said such a state of affairs as this would be "intolerable to American security."

Miss Decker disagreed with Henry Wallace who said Russia had as much right to spread Communism as the United States has to spread Democracy. "There is a great moral distinction between the ways that each spreads his outlook," she said. One is spread by popular participation and the other is spread by terror.

POWER POLITICS

She recommended that America should have "military dominance of the Dardanelles to hold Russian expansion in check. She said: "I know this is 'power politics,' but that is what is needed."

Mary Gibson said the trouble was not taking the time, or the trouble, to study the Russian point-of-view. She said if people studied the background of Russia, they would find the Russians have suffered much, and need our sympathy.

Miss Gibson continued that during Russia's "modernization" under the five-year plans, and during the war they received the sympathy of Americans. "Now," she said, "we are at opposite poles."

She said if things continued as they were, there was a strong possibility of another war. "We should do something to prevent it while we have a chance—before the shooting starts."

Miss Gibson said nothing would be gained by spending money to combat Communism. Such money would go "down the drain," she said.

"What is needed is more co-operation and a more friendly point of view," she said.

Britain Reduces Price Of Bacon

LONDON (CP)—Food Minister Strachey Tuesday announced he had increased the average gravity strength of beer from 1032 to 1034.6 degrees and had reduced by four pence (6½ cents) the price of bacon, which now averages between ninepence ha-penny (about 16 cents) and one shilling and ninepence (about 35 cents) a pound.

Speaking at his regular press conference, Strachey also said he had taken price controls off sauce and pickles and had arranged to import Australian crawfish.

The increase in the strength of beer would bring it up to the level it was at before last August when a 10-per-cent cut was imposed.

Film Council

Among films shown at a special preview in the National Film Board office, 1255 Langley Street, were the following, now available from Victoria Public Library, Film Service:

"Klee Wyck" — "Film of the Month," dealing with the life and work of Emily Carr.

"Windbreak on the Prairies"—In their desire to extract the utmost from the soil, prairie farmers often ruthlessly cut down the few trees that stood in the way of their ploughs. A period of drought, followed by high winds, was sufficient to blow away the valuable topsoil and the farmers realized, too late, that the trees which had been sold for firewood might have saved their farms. It is shown how the experimental station at Indian Head is cultivating acres of young trees for distribution among farmers in an attempt to remedy the situation.

Mr. Belton, National Film Board representative, presented several new films, as possible purchases by the Film Council. Among these were: "Australia Today," a color film dealing with life in Australia at the present time; "Wanton Murder," a safety film; and "Glass Bell," a thoughtful film concerning the Nazi experiment of oppression.

How Can We In Victoria Guard Against CANCER?

1. We MUST see a doctor at least once a year for a thorough check-over. Hundreds die in this city every year because they do not seek cancer treatment till too late.

2. We MUST learn cancer's danger signals. We must talk about cancer, and bring it out into the open. Ignorance of Victoria's No. 2 Killer is folly.

3. We can give to help provide cancer research, hospital and education facilities. These will help protect us all. We can mail our contribution to Conquer Cancer Campaign, Prince Robert House, 912 Douglas Street, Victoria, today!

Junior Chamber To Urge Citizens To 'Get Out And Vote'

An active campaign to bring a large percentage of citizens to the polls to vote on the new transportation and school building by-laws is planned by the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Fred E. Norris, president of the chamber, has written Ald. H. M. Diggon, chairman of the Greater Victoria transportation committee, advising him of the chamber's plan.

The letter states: "The forthcoming by-laws on the school and transportation issues are of such vital interest to the welfare of our community that the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce is planning to run a vigorous and comprehensive 'Get Out and Vote' campaign.

"Such a project is designed to arrive at a true picture of the people's wishes through as large an expression of opinion at the polls as can be obtained."

Ald. Diggon said he was gratified to note the community interest displayed by the chamber and their realization of the importance of both by-laws to the future of the Greater Victoria area.

Tentative date set for the balloting on these issues is June 19.

Researchers Trace Maritimers Who Lost Wartime Jobs

HALIFAX (CP)—The answer to the question of what happens to a Maritimer when he loses his wartime job is being sought by Dalhousie University's Institute of Public Affairs as the first step in a proposed five-year plan of study of labor conditions and the labor market in the east coast provinces.

The Institute's researchers have tagged a group of 900 jobless so their fortunes can be watched through the next year.

The jobless, part of the group of 1,400 laid off when the naval dockyard here cut its staff, are described by Prof. Lothar Richter as "a cross-section of the industrial population of the Maritimes."

They include every type of worker from ditch-diggers to skilled torpedo fitters.

They will be followed up as they register with the National Employment Service or return to their homes elsewhere. At the end of a year the Institute hopes to be able to draw some conclusions about unemployment problems in the Maritimes.

CLARIFICATION NEEDED

Said Prof. Richter, head of the institute: "The research will help to clarify how mobile labor is under postwar conditions; how many of the laid-off persons cannot find jobs and how long they remain unemployed; and what influence age, skill, experience and similar factors have on re-employment."

The "tagging" means laid-off dock workers won't lose their identity among the 30,000 jobless in the Maritimes.

It is too early yet for any conclusions to be reached as a result of the survey, but it showed 90 per cent of the discharged workers were Maritimers.

Gallup Poll

Canadians Not Sure U.S. Aid To Greece Will Prevent Conflict

By CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF PUBLIC OPINION

Opinion in Canada is less emphatic than in the United States on the wisdom of President Truman's program of aid to Greece and Turkey.

A higher than usual proportion of adult Canadians are undecided on the issue, but the largest single group think the Truman policy will help avoid war.

The Canadian Institute has surveyed a representative cross-section of voters on the subject in this manner:

"As you have probably heard, United States is considering giving military aid and money to Greece, in order to keep Russia from having too much power there. Do you think this action on the part of United States will help prevent another war, or do you think it will help bring on another war?"

More than one-third of the persons interviewed failed to express a positive view: Will help prevent war 35 per cent, will tend to cause war 29 per cent, undecided 23 per cent, not familiar with subject 13 per cent.

In the United States a Gallup poll conducted by the American Institute on a similar question, drew the following expression of viewpoint among U.S. voters:

Will help prevent war 54 per cent, will tend to cause war 30 per cent, undecided, etc. 16 per cent.

QUEBEC FEARS WAR

Among Canadians, the proportions who think the Truman policy will help prevent war is higher than average in all provinces except Quebec, where the greater number fear it will lead to war.

Persons of British origin see the U.S. move contributing to peace more predominantly than French-language and other racial-origin groups.

Ex-service men, particularly the veterans of World War I, are more optimistic of the outcome of action on the Truman policy than the non-service public.

In general, the better informed voters are more inclined to view the U.S. aid program favorably.

Sharpest divergence of Canadian opinion on the issue is to be found relative to voters' federal political party allegiance today:

	Pro-Con	Lib	C.C.F.
Will help prevent war	40%	38%	24%
Tend to cause war	21	28	43
Undecided	28	20	23
Not familiar with subject	11	14	10
	100%	100%	100%

Packard Boosts Price On Current Models

DETROIT (AP)—The Packard Motor Car Co. Tuesday announced price increases ranging from $75 to $224, effective immediately, on all current models of six and eight-cylinder cars.

In announcing the increases, George Christopher, Packard president, expressed regret the company could not reduce prices or maintain previous levels.

Christopher said the price increases "give consideration" to wage increases sought by the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.), as well as to rises in material costs, which the company has been unable to absorb, with production restricted so sharply.

Sees No Prospect Of Downward Trend In Automobile Cost

Present price trend in automobiles is not likely to go down, according to R. J. Logue, president of the Federation of Automobile Dealer Associations of Canada, who arrived in Victoria yesterday.

In fact, Mr. Logue said, if prices do not go up it will be because the manufacturers are holding everything down to basic minimum. According to the president, the same factors affecting prices in other fields are also affecting those in the automobile industry.

The increase in automobile costs is not a matter of intent, but rather an impossibility of controlling increasing cost factors, Mr. Logue said.

He admitted there were instances of some dealers demanding turning in of a used car before selling a new car to a customer, but did not expect the practice to become general. However, he said, where such instances did exist, it was usual to find that circumstances justified them.

In discussing this subject, Mr. Logue issued a warning to prospective purchasers of new cars. They should hold on to their present cars until they are assured of delivery of the new ones, he said, anticipating that it will probably be some time before new cars arrive in sufficient quantity to meet present demand.

He explained that the present shortage of new cars was not due to lack of production, but because of the tremendous backlog of orders. As a matter of fact, he pointed out, the rate of production this year is nearly equal that of 1941, and the rate of production is expected to go up by the end of the year.

Mr. Logue pointed out that lack of critical materials had its effect in holding up production. Most essential of these materials are steel, pig-iron and copper, and while everything is being done to increase steel production, the actual increase has not yet been much.

Mr. Logue was met on his arrival here by W. A. Davis, Victoria, president of the Motor Dealers' Association of B.C. and provincial director of the Dominion federation. Accompanying Mr. Logue, who is from Sydney, N.S., were: L. J. Rust, vice-president of the Dominion federation, Brandon, Man.; Harry I. Wilson, Calgary, Alta., treasurer, and Howard B. Moore, Toronto, general manager.

They'll Do It Every Time

writing, they have taken special interest in the moon, and have made many records of it. In ancient times many persons spoke about a "god of the moon."

When we look at the moon, we may see, in fancy, features like those of a human face. This gave rise to the old story about "the Man in the Moon." The tale was told in several ways, but it was common to say that "the Man" once lived on earth but had failed to act in a proper and was punished by being placed in the moon.

Other persons have supposed that they saw outlines of "the Lady in the Moon" and "the Rabbit in the Moon." Many of those who look for the Lady or the Rabbit fail to find them, but at full moon it is simple to make out the face of "the Man." The question seems to have been missed about where to find the legs, arms and other parts of the man in the moon.

When a person looks at the moon through a telescope or field glasses, the pictures vanish. Neither a man, nor a lady, nor a rabbit can be seen.

The pictures on the moon are due to dark markings, and the way they reflect sunlight. Some parts reflect less sunlight than others.

The DOCTOR Says:

TENSION, RUSH IMPAIR MENTAL HEALTH

By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M.D.

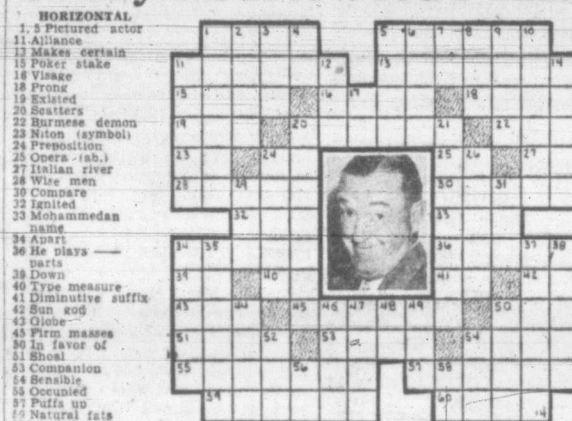

People around you have the same problems you have in trying to secure personal satisfaction and economic security. Your success in life depends on how well you are able to get along with yourself and how happy you are in association with others.

Katharine B. Crisp in her book, "Health For You," points out how difficult it is today for the average person to take proper care of himself. Health is further interfered with by mental tension and fatigue resulting from rush and hurry.

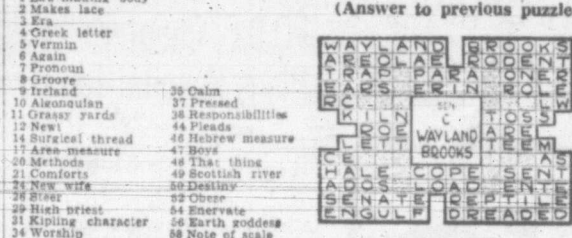

Perplexities of modern living are here to stay, and while civilization has contributed much to our physical comfort, it has greatly complicated our social adjustment. Everyone makes demands on his nervous energy that he would not have made if he had been born a generation ago.

Those who avoid being tense successful to a large degree in adjusting themselves to the complex world in which we live. Many ways of relaxing tension are known. Alternate periods of work and rest help one person while another needs a complete rest. Many relax by a change in what they are doing. Some people spend so much time and effort in trying to escape from their tensions that they create new tensions.

BEST ADJUSTED PERSONS

When you dislike your job you not only increase your tension, but you also reduce your skill. Trying to do something which is beyond your capacity is a common cause of unhappiness. Best adjusted persons are those who have found the ideal way to perform the task which they have to do most often.

Many People Suffer From Rheumatic Pain

There are people who suffer from rheumatic pains year in and year out regardless of the season or the weather.

These pains, whether they be in the joints or the muscles, may be induced by uric acid.

Burdock Blood Bitters may bring relief from rheumatic pain for it helps to cleanse impurities from the body and tones up the digestive organs.

It has helped thousands of Canadians who suffer from rheumatic pains, dyspepsia, sour stomach, biliousness, headaches or minor complaints of the liver or kidneys. It should do the same for you.

On sale for more than 60 years, Burdock Blood Bitters is available at drug counters everywhere.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

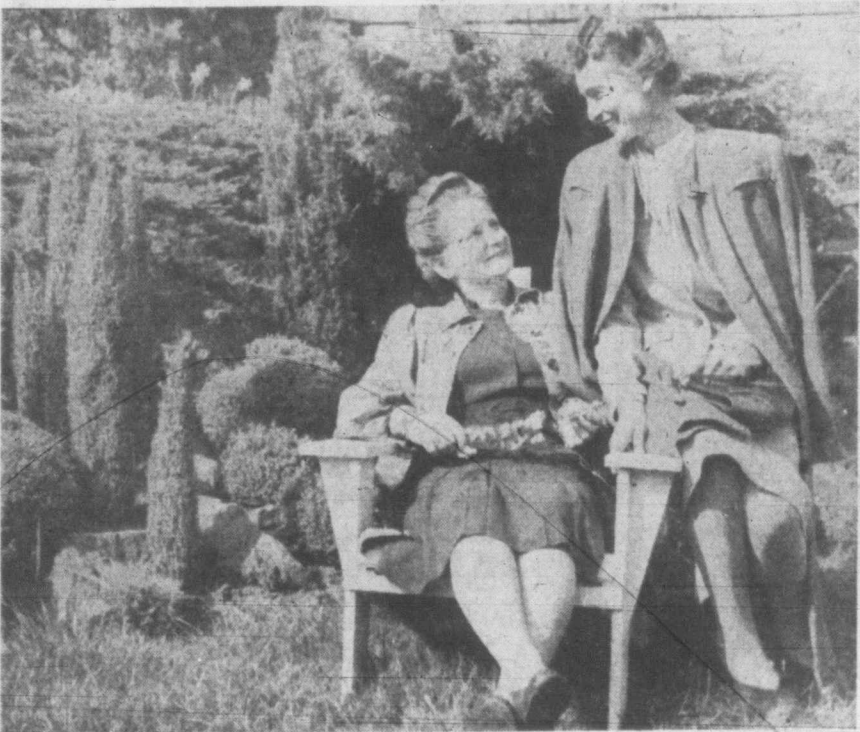

MAKE THIS TRIP BEFORE THE 24th

Just 10 days from now it will be the 24th of May—the first "good weather" holiday of the year. On that day highways will be crowded with cars new and old all headed for the open road.

If you plan that day, Johns-Manville suggests you take a tip and make another trip now. For your own safety and the safety of others, make a trip today to your nearest garage or service station and have your brakes checked by an experienced mechanic. If you need a complete brake job, specify Johns-Manville Brake Linings. Then you'll experience the same safe stopping power motorists have relied upon since the first asbestos brake lining was made!

There's a J-M dealer near you who can give you expert advice on brake problems. Contact your J-M distributor, Jeffrey & Jeffrey Ltd., Victoria, for the name of your nearest Johns-Manville Brake Lining dealer.

Newcomer Enjoys Victoria's Gardens

Mrs. Phillip Freeman, left, who came from Toronto with her husband several months ago to make their home in Victoria on Craigdarroch Road, is enjoying her first spring here. Mrs. Freeman is pictured with Mrs. H. S. Hamill, in the latter's garden, 750 Richmond Road.

Church Bells Peal For Nuptial Rites

Chiming of bells at Christ Church Cathedral early Monday evening heralded the approach of satin-gowned bride Miss Marjorie Elizabeth Limer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Limer, 1034 Rockland Avenue, for her marriage to Walter William Caldwell, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell, 312 Beechwood Avenue.

Mr. Limer gave his daughter in marriage in the service performed by Rev. T. Leadbeater, A. Mary Stuart headress with orange blossom trim held the bride's net veil which filtered over her full-skirted gown of net over taffeta, with satin bodice, sweetheart neckline and lily-point sleeves. She wore the groom's gift of a single strand of pearls, and carried a white bible, topped with gardenia.

Sparkling white gowns in net over whisper taffeta skirts, topped with silk and jersey bodices were worn by bridal attendants, Miss Mary Limer, maid of honor for her sister, and Miss Rita Weber as bridesmaid. Bridesmaids wore white with shoulder-length veils, elbow gloves and pastel spring flowers in Colonial bouquets completed their ensembles.

Roy McMinn attended the groom, and Alan Wilson and Albert Wilson seated guests.

A three-tier cake, flanked by lighted white candles in silver holders, was cut by the newlyweds at a reception held in Memorial Hall. Mrs. Limer and Mrs. F. Gilbert, sister of the groom, assisted in receiving guests. T. Thompson proposed the bridal toast.

Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell will make their home in the city following a wedding trip to Vancouver and Seattle. A silver grey gabardine suit with white topcoat and accessories and gardenia corsage bouquet composed the bride's traveling costume.

Do You Feel Nervous And All on Edge?

People suffering from loss of appetite and run-down condition with symptoms of nerve strain often need a nerve and general tonic. Glycerol-Lecithin with Vitamin B(1) supplies tonic ingredients. It is especially beneficial for convalescents. By increasing the supply of Vitamin B(1) in the system, appetite is improved and the system thereby built up to normal if the loss of appetite was due to deficiency of Vitamin B(1) in the diet. $1.00 at all Cunningham Drug Stores and other drug stores. Sandwiches, Pop Put Over Teen-Age Party

For a teen-age spring party—butterfly sandwiches and lots of carbonated beverages

Spring parties are always welcomed by teen-agers. Girls will be thrilled with fancy sandwiches. Boys (and the girls, too) will welcome unlimited supplies of their favorite carbonated beverages.

Arrange sandwiches in a butterfly design on individual plates. Chill soft drinks well in advance (chilling brings out flavor and zippy carbonation). Place bottles, unopened, on the table. Put the stems of tulip blossoms through the center of small lace paper doilies, and tie one on each bottle with ribbon. Put several bottle openers on the table and let the boys have the fun of uncapping the beverages.

For wings: Stack alternately three slices of dark bread and two slices of white bread. Cut off crusts. Spread each side of slice (except outside of top and bottom) with softened butter and different sandwich fillings. One stack will make two butterfly wings.

Wrap stacks tightly in wax paper and chill until firm in refrigerator. Remove paper; slice each stack into four ribbon sandwiches. Cut each across diagonally, and arrange on plate to look like wings.

Butterfly Sandwiches: Use white and pumpernickle or dark wheat bread with a variety of sandwich fillings.

For butterfly body: Put a slice of buttered white and buttered dark bread together with a ground meat and mayonnaise filling. Cut out shape with a ladyfinger cutter; or cut into strips with a sharp knife and round off corners with scissors. Place in center of plate between wings.

For antennae: Cut off raw carrots about two inches from tip. Slice lengthwise on board into very thin long strips. Put strips in water and place in refrigerator to curl. Arrange two strips on each plate just before serving.

Sandwich filling suggestions: To make a colorful assortment of fillings for the butterfly wings, use cream cheese with minced radish peel—snappy yellow cheese with minced green pepper—cream cheese with chopped pimiento—mashed hard-cooked egg yolks with mayonnaise and mustard—cream cheese with minced leeks.

meeting. Tea hostesses were Mrs. W. Norton and Mrs. J. Croft.

Intercession Service—Members of Robert Burns McKicking Chapter, I.O.D.E., at their regular meeting held recently were reminded of Intercession Service to be held May 25 at Metropolitan United Church. Miss Christine MacNab presided and it was reported a sum of $52.60 was realized from the rummage sale held at the Public Market. Further announcements were made regarding the chapter's sponsoring of the Little Theatre production "Pygmalion" on May 29. Plans were made for members to visit patients at the D.V.A. Hospital once a month. Five prospective members were accepted into the chapter and it was announced the next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. P. Partridge, Beach Drive. Members will take part in Alexandra Rose Day on June 7.

North Ward —The regular meeting of North Ward P.T.A. will be held in the school auditorium, Monday at 8. Ways and means of securing a playground in the Rock Bay area will be discussed. Refreshments will be served by Quadra primary teachers.

Material Shower —Arrangements to hold a material shower at Ganges Inn, on May 31, were made at a meeting held in the parish room at Ganges Harbor, Salt Spring Island recently. Mrs. G. H. Holmes presided and Mesdames E. Adams and F. Sharp were elected tea conveners for the shower. It was announced the annual material shower will be held on Aug. 6 in the grounds of Harbor House Hotel. An address was given by Miss M. Harmon on her work as a missionary in the Belgian Congo, after the business

Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Fallick, 2618 Roseberry Avenue, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Winnifred Laura, to James Paul, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Connors, Medicine Hat, Alberta. The wedding will take place at St. John's Church on May 22, at 7:30 p.m.

Dorothy Dix

MATES SHOULD COME FIRST WITH WIVES INSTEAD OF THEIR FAMILIES

Dear Miss Dix: Why do wives always side with their own family against their husbands? Why are a wife's father and mother and sisters and brothers always models of all they should be in the wife's eyes, while the husband is invariably wrong?

I am sick and tired of having to play second fiddle to my in-laws and I am just about ready to call it quits.

DISGUSTED HUSBAND.
Answer: Probably it is some sort of instinctive tribal loyalty that makes a woman rush to the defence of her family when her husband attacks them. Also, it is probably her vanity that makes her flaunt her family in her husband's face and represent them as the embodiment of all wisdom and charm and grace.

You would think that, inasmuch as a woman leaves her family to go to a man when she marries him, she admires him more than she did her bunch of assorted relatives. Probably in her heart she really does, but all the same she isn't going to let him have the satisfaction of knowing that she considers him superior to her kith and kin.

So she is always throwing Father's opinion in husband's teeth, and preface every remark with "Mother says we should do this," or "Mother says we shouldn't do that," and she calls her husband old fogey and narrow-minded when he criticizes her for drinking too many cocktails, and when husband calls brother a deadbeat, she counters by saying that brother is temperamental and has high aspirations and isn't content to be just a sordid money-grubber like he is.

Whereupon, there are ructions and wife's family becomes like a red rag to a mad bull to husband, because apparently she admires them more than she does him, and that hurts his vanity as well as his heart.

The happiness and prosperity of a family depend on a wife putting her husband first, above

Denmark Conservatives, Radicals Lose Ground As Politics Shift

COPENHAGEN (Reuter) — The big losses of two non-Socialist parties in recent elections to the Danish Upper House are taken here as a sign of the times.

These parties, Conservatives and Radicals, are experiencing internal conflicts which are expected to come to an end only when they evolve new programs that fit the present day.

"The parties are breaking up because the party programs, with the formulas handed down from the past and traditional party politics, no longer meet the demands of the time and of reality," is how newspapers put it.

CHAIRMAN QUILTS

Most dramatic consequence of these latest elections, in which the total Conservative poll showed a 25 per cent drop and the total of the Radical Party a loss of more than 30 per cent, was the resignation by Christmas Moeller, former Foreign Minister, of the chairmanship of the Conservative Parliamentary Party and election in his stead of Ole Bjoern Kraft, a member of the Lower House.

At present the Conservatives and Radicals support the minority government of the Agrarians or left (Venstre) party headed by Prime Minister Knud Kristensen. This agrarian party chose the middle path between the two supporting parties—the Radicals stand a little to the left of the Agrarians—and thus took over a great deal of their program.

But this advance was not enough to halt the recovery of the Social Democrats, which is being made at the expense of the Communist Party as well as of the right-wing parties.

Such, at any rate, is the view of the political situation in Denmark taken by the man-in-the-street, who realizes that even the Social Democrats and the Communists are affected by the melting-down effect on world events.

Denmark has never been a country of violent revolution. Contrasts are not big enough to cause such upheavals.

FEAST OF ASCENSION

There will be festal evensong in Christ Church Cathedral at 8 Thursday evening, the Feast of the Ascension, when the preacher will be Bishop Harold E. Sexton, D.D.

In accordance with the custom that has been observed for several years the clergy, choir and people of the parishes in the rural deanery of Victoria have been invited to this service. The combined choirs will render the anthem, "And the Glory of the Lord Shall Be Revealed" Handel.

The sponge was once believed to be a combination of both plant and animal.

T.C.A. President To Retire This Year

H. J. SYMINGTON

OTTAWA (CP)—H. J. Symington, C.M.G., K.C., tireless 65-year-old, unsalaried president of Trans-Canada Air Lines, said in effect Tuesday that he would be retiring from that job sometime within the next year.

Concluding his annual testimony before the railway committee of the Commons, he surprised members by announcing that "this is my last appearance before you."

First to pay tribute to his services, Reconstruction Minister Howe said Mr. Symington would not be leaving "for a little time."

He said Mr. Symington was recognized in the aviation industry throughout the world as its ablest man.

Members quickly added their tributes to the man who, A. M. Nicholson, C.C.F., Mackenzie, Sask., said, could consider T.C.A. "your baby."

Mr. Howe said Mr. Symington had not taken a cent in salary since he took over T.C.A. as a wartime job in 1941 at a time when he also was Canada's power controller.

Ontario Liberals Naming Leader; Interest Voiced At Ottawa

TORONTO (CP)—The wide-open fight for the leadership of the Ontario Liberal Party has drawn the interest of Liberal quarters in Ottawa.

With more than a dozen names mentioned in pre-convention speculation, federal house members are casting anxious eyes at the field in the Ontario Liberal Association convention here Thursday and Friday.

Of 82 Ontario seats in the House of Commons only 34 are held by Liberals and appointment of a strong leader for the Ontario party would enhance Liberal chances in the next federal election, they believe.

OLIVER IN FIELD

One named has remained in the fore of speculation since several months before the Ontario Legislature met in March—Farquhar Oliver, 43-year-old leader of the 13-man opposition in the Legislature, first elected to the Ontario house in 1926 as a 22-year-old, protégé of Agnes MacPhail, he has represented Grey South in the Legislature ever since.

A keen debater, particularly a farm issues, the Liberal opposition leader has been a sharp critic of the Drew administration and on occasion his mild manner has given away to vitriol as he administered tongue-lashings to the Ontario Premier from the floor of the Assembly. Formerly Minister of Public Works and Welfare under Premier Harry Nixon, Mr. Oliver is a farmer.

Among the others mentioned are Colin A. Campbell, Allan A. Lamport, St. Clair Gordon, William M. Benidickson, John J. Robinette, Don Lewis, Harry S. Hamilton, William A. Gunn and Alvin Peter Cadeau.

Mr. Campbell, former public works minister in the Hepburn government, has had a long political career. Mr. Lamport is a Toronto alderman and a former member of the Legislature, while St. Clair Gordon formerly was provincial liquor commissioner.

Mr. Gunn, former party organizer, once stood in Toronto for election to the federal house. Mr. Lewis, former mayor of Brockville, is believed to have support of eastern Ontario delegates and Mr. Hamilton of Sault Ste. Marie is a former federal member.

Liberal member of Parliament for Kenora-Rainy River, Mr. Benidickson is said to be considering dropping out of the race, while Mr. Robinette, a prominent Toronto lawyer, has made little comment.

England May Be Slipping But She Is Not Dead Yet

All over the world, in the first few months of 1947, men would turn to each other and say: "Great Britain is no longer great. Great Britain has had her day." One writer said: "To all empires comes a day of which it can be said, 'At this point the sceptre passed to other hands.' And that day came last week to Britain." Some said it with unconcealed pleasure, some said it with genuine distress. Some were glad, some were sad. But were any of them right?

The British claim they are not dead, or even dying, and they resent the obituary notices that appeared in the U.S. press. One London columnist points out that the Americans buried Great Britain after Dunkerque, "and now, after a miraculous exhumation, we have been buried again, with an air of finality which makes it almost indecent to protest." Yet he does protest. He says Britain is not dead yet.

It is clear, of course, that the greatest days of the British empire, as an empire, are over, and that Britain herself, in her own land, is fighting for her life as a great power.

Read the facts explaining the new England and why she is losing power and what her plans are for the future in the article entitled "England Is Not Dead Yet" in this week's Star Weekly, on sale today at your magazine dealers.

The Star Weekly is distributed on Vancouver Island by Lovick's News Agency, Victoria, B.C.

Softballers Work On City Diamond

Determined to have their playing field in good condition, even if they have to get out and do the labor themselves, a group of players and officials from the city senior A men's clubs are seen, during a working bee at Central Park. The boys are moving one of the large bleachers into its proper position.

Cricketers Open Season Saturday With Three Games

Opening matches of the 1947 cricket schedule will get under way on Saturday with all six teams of the Victoria and district seeing action.

With many new players in town, including a number of Ex-R.A.F. stars and a sprinkling of newcomers, competition in league play is expected to be extremely keen this season and officials are looking forward to a banner year.

University School Incogs, who will be under the direction of Reg Wenman, will play host to Five C's at the University School pitch.

Royal Canadian Navy will open their schedule on the new pitch at H.M.C.S. Naden, meeting Oak Bay in the opener. Twenty-two players have been turning out for the sailors and things look to be on the upswing for the naval men.

Albions under Ted Oakman will oppose Ex-R.A.F. in the other match of the day at Macdonald Park. Comparative strength of the armers is unknown, but as

Happy Day Signs New Leafs Contract

TORONTO (CP)—Clarence (Happy) Day, coach of the world champion Toronto Maple Leafs hockey club, said here today that he was signed to a new contract by managing director Conn Smythe "at a substantial increase."

Day, former defenceman and captain of the club, piloted the Maple Leafs to three Stanley Cup championships and has missed the playoffs only once since he became coach in 1940.

Eagles, Gasmen In Amateur Ball Tilt

Senior amateur baseballers resume their schedule at Macdonald Park tonight with the league-leading Eagles tangling with Rosy McLellan's Pitzer and Nex squad at 6:30.

Eagles have yet to taste defeat at the hands of one of the local squads, their only loss to date coming Sunday at Duncan. Pitzer and Nex composed mostly of high school stars are the surprise package of the league and may upset the loop leaders.

Behind the pitching of Bernie Anderson, Victoria High School Golds handed Mount View their first setback of the season, 6 to 0, to take over top place in the interhigh baseball loop.

For Anderson, it was his second straight shutout and the young hurler worked nicely, giving up two hits, taking 10 on strikes and passing only two. Anderson pitched himself out of a jam in the seventh when a pair of errors put men on second and third with only one away.

Golds scored once in the third when Anderson singled, stole second and took third on catcher Cameron's overthrow and counted when McArthur was charged with a balk.

A five-run rally in the seventh led the game and again it was Anderson who started, driving in two runs with another single. Only two of the runs were earned as losers made three bobbles, two going to second-sacker Dale Kilshaw.

Short score follows:

Anglers Postpone Plans To Get Park

Saanich Council at its meeting Tuesday night heard from Harry Woolston, president of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association that owing to the securing of a satisfactory lease from Harry Peard for the main building on the Anchorage Tea Garden grounds at Brentwood Bay, the anglers will not require use of Verdier Park for its proposed clubhouse construction at the present time.

However, he made it clear to the council that the association may in future approach it to reopen negotiations for the park. Woolston thanked the reeve and council for their fine co-operation and Reeve Warren assured him that the administrative group will be glad to meet representatives of the club at any future date.

George Mann, chairman of the tackle and investigation committee, also attended.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke defeated Pauline Betz in an exhibition professional tennis match Tuesday before 700 Smith College girl students, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5.

Woop Bats, Hurls Athletics To Win

Bill Woop, the portside with the blazing fast ball, is the toast of Victoria baseball public today. Stepping out of the bull pen in the first half of the seventh inning with the score tied at 10 to 10 and two men aboard, the big good-natured hurler of the A's stopped the Vancouver uprising cold with two strikeouts, and then personally whacked in the winning run with a line double off the bottom of the left centre field fence in the eighth to give the locals an 11 to 10 victory and to square the series at a game apiece.

The big silysider was called to the rescue when starting pitcher Len Kasparovitch, and Joe Blankenship his relief, were unable to hold the big seven-run margin the local had built up in the first inning. In his two and two-thirds innings stint on the mound Woop retired seven of the Caplanos via the whiff route to run his strikeout total to 70 for the season.

The performance of the big fellow was all the more noteworthy as he was pitching with only two days rest and had worked in batting practice prior to the game itself.

The 1,500 odd fans who were in attendance last night took a distinct dislike to Vancouver hurler Hunk Anderson for his accidental beaming of Babe Jensen in the second inning and gave the Caplanos a quite a riding the rest of the way.

Overshadowed by Woop's performance was the hitting of Pat Patterson, A's speedy outer gardener, who blasted out a home run and two singles in four trips. Caplanos took other batting honors, outitting the A's 19 to 10.

A's START FAST
Jack Meister, giant right-hander of the Caplanos, was given a rough reception by the A's in the first inning and before retiring in favor of Anderson was touched for three singles and two free passes which accounted for five of the seven runs scored by the A's in the first canto.

Hunk Anderson's wildness plus a base-clearing double by shortstop Johnny Cavelli aided no little in the scoring spree. Victoria added two tallies in the second when Anderson forced one run across on a walk and Hafenecker singled the other run in.

Caplanos accounted for nine of their 10 runs in three big innings, the second, fourth and sixth, and tied the score in the seventh before Woop was called to the rescue. Patterson's homer in the third was good for A's other score.

Dick Mitchell, 18-year-old right-hander is manager Ted Norbert's choice for tonight's deciding game of the three-game series before the clubs move to Vancouver for a four-game stand. Bob Hall, formerly of Seattle Rainiers will work for the Caps.

BREMERTON WINS
Bremerton retained its position at the head of the standings by a half-game margin with a 13 to 4 win at Tacoma. Spokane blasted Yakima 9 to 1 on Don Costello's four-hit pitching while Salem edged Wenatchee 8 to 7 in 11 innings.

Bremerton chased Mitch Chetkovich, Tacoma's starter, before he could retire a man in the initial inning, counted six runs and then coasted to its nine-run margin on an 18-hit attack. Hub Kittle turned in a seven-hit performance for the victors, and Allan Maul, Joe Gedzius and Al

Woolston, Tacoma's pitcher, pitched a shutout for the winners.

Gordon Hartley, chief supervisor of city playgrounds, announced today that an extensive program is being planned in city parks for the summer months.

With an abundance of educational and recreational equipment available at each playground it has been decided to operate nine supervised playing fields this season, which will be an increase of five over last year.

Parks operating as supervised playgrounds this year include Beacon Hill, Central, Todd, Victoria West, Burnside, Hollywood, Stadacona, Oaklands and James Bay. There is also a possibility that North Ward Park will be available.

Each playground will be under direction of a supervisor. Hartley and his associates will work in co-operation with W. H. Warren, city parks superintendent.

Miss Irene Mottishaw of the Y.W.C.A. and Dr. Henrietta Anderson of the Greater Victoria Recreation Council.

Playgrounds will function six days a week and swimming instruction for beginners and advanced swimmers will again be offered at the Crystal Garden.

ALTHOUGH VICTORIA'S new arena has yet to take shape the candidates have been nominated, from which the five-man commission to operate the rink will be selected. At Monday's meeting of the City Council 13 nominations were made and selection of a five-man board will be made following the final passing of the by-law creating the commission. Big job of the commissioners will be to select the manager of the arena. In this connection they want to make sure and get a good one. With a first class rink operator in charge the work of the commission will be primarily one of supervision. The success or failure of the venture will rest with the manager. It will be his business to promote the arena and operate it in a manner befitting a high class entertainment centre. A first class manager will no doubt prove expensive but he will earn his salary in operating the arena to the complete satisfaction of the citizens of Victoria who dug into their pockets to make the arena possible.

MANAGER TED NORBERT of the Athletics has received the thumbs up from the umpires twice this season, but he is just a piker in comparison to the record of Alan Strange, fireball boss of the Bremerton club. Strange has been asked to leave W.L.L. ball parks the hard way five times and the season is less than a month old. Another fiery leader is Red Harvel who handles the Tacoma Tigers. Harvel, who lives up to his red-hair reputation, will likely get the nod from the men in blue at least a dozen times during the long campaign. It should be an interesting race between Strange and Harvel for the season's questionable honor of taking an early shower.

DIRECTORS OF THE Marylebone Cricket Club made sure that members of the English test team, recently returned home from Australia, did not sound off on controversial matters relating to the recent test series, by clamping on a 12-month period of silence. Complaints of English writers about the umpiring and conditions of play hit the front pages of many newspapers in Britain, but team members didn't say a thing for publication. Might be a good idea for baseball commissioner Happy Chandler to throttle the major league managers and club owners in a similar fashion.

A JOCKEY, OUNCE for ounce, probably is the most expensive outfit—his own expense—in the sports world. When he has a leg up in the post parade his outfit costs him about $200. Biggest item is the saddle at $130. The average jockey spends about $1,000 to keep himself equipped each year. The only thing he doesn't buy is the shirt on his back, the silk blouse and cap which the owner supplies.

Surprising Mackmen Turn On Bob Feller

Hats off to Connie Mack. The venerable 84-year-old gentleman, now in his 47th year as manager of Philadelphia Athletics, is quietly answering his critics by giving the Athletic fans the best brand of baseball they have seen in more than a dozen years.

After a traditionally poor start they have won six of their last eight games including a 7 to 6 conquest of the mighty Bob Feller and Cleveland Indians last night to astound baseball observers.

The Mackmen dropped 10 of their first 14 games, but nine have been by one run and another was lost in extra innings. In only two games this season were the A's decisively beaten.

The A's had to come from behind twice last night to win, scoring the deciding runs in the seventh when Sam Chapman homered off Feller with a man on base. The defeat was the third for Feller against four triumphs.

Bullet Bob gave up only four hits, as many as the Indians were able to gather off Bill McCahan and winning pitcher Bob Savage.

The Tigers retained their one-game lead over Boston Red Sox by shutting out Washington Senators before 17,983 capitol city fans in a night game. Hal Newhouser ended his four-game losing streak by blanking the Nats with four singles.

RED SOX STILL WIN
The Boston Red Sox continued their upsurge by winning their seventh game in their last eight starts, trampling Chicago White Sox 19 to 6. Ted Williams made two of the Red Sox' 18 hits, both homers.

Aided by four home runs, three of them in succession in the sixth inning by Charlie Keller, Joe DiMaggio and Johnny Lindell, New York Yankees opened their home swing with a 9 to 1 triumph over St. Louis Browns.

Led by their first base rookie sensation, Earl Torgeson, Boston Braves defeated Chicago Cubs 7 to 4 to move within a half game of the National League-leading Bruins. Torgeson hammered in five runs on two doubles, a single and his eighth homer of the season. Southpaw Warren Spahn was credited with his fifth win against no defeats.

St. Louis Cardinals were blanked by lefty Dave Koslo who pitched New York Giants to a 5 to 0 win with a neat two-hitter. With the aid of five walks in the third inning, the Cincinnati Reds scored four times and went on to defeat Brooklyn Dodgers 7 to 5.

Town Topics

Victoria Club for the Hard-of-Hearing will meet tonight. Lip-reading practice will start at 7:45.

The monthly meeting of the Vancouver Island Beekeepers' Association will be held at the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday evening at 8.

Daniel Werk was found guilty on a charge of dangerous driving on April 14 at Belleville and Menzies Street by Magistrate Henry C. Hall in city police court today and was fined $40.

Twenty-five residents of the Aged Men's Home were taken for an outing by the Capital City Tally-ho Tuesday, with David Fair as driver, J. Stothard, superintendent of the home, reported today.

Those who have signified their intention of entering the come section of the May 24 parade and those who wish to enter are requested to contact W. H. Cox at the Eagles' headquarters or phone E 6616.

Members of the Police Commission supported a suggestion that waste containers be placed at convenient locations in downtown areas as a means of keeping the city streets clean. They also felt the public should be educated as to their use.

Forrest L. Shaw has asked that his name be withdrawn from the list of nominees for the Arena Commission, Ald. B. J. Gadsden, who nominated him, said today.

Ald. Gadsden said he would nominate W. T. Straith at the next meeting of the council.

War Assets Corporation has advised the City Council that the agreement for sale, transferring 57.5 acres of naval property at Gordon Head to the city of Victoria has been approved by federal order-in-council. The property will be used as an airpark.

"Clean-up, Paint-up" campaign posters, done by children in Greater Victoria schools, will be judged at the Thursday luncheon meeting of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce. Prizes will be awarded to the young artists who contribute the best posters.

Saanich Council Tuesday night authorized the municipal clerk to notify the Citizens' Rehabilitation Council that it will co-operate to its best ability in giving older veterans employment in the corporation. "If we are in a position to use the services of an older veteran we certainly will do so," Reeve E. C. Warren said.

John Garbutt was found guilty today by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court to a charge of supplying an Indian with intoxicants, one case of beer and was fined $50, or in default, 30 days in jail. On Tuesday he said he had bought the beer for a man at Bamberton and had only asked the Indian to carry it because he was tired.

Victoria College Council Elects Clearihue Chairman

J. B. CLEARIHUE, K.C.

Victoria College Council, the 10-person governing board of the college affiliated with the University of British Columbia, has elected J. B. Clearihue, M.C., M.A., B.C.L., K.C., chairman, it was announced today.

Mr. Clearihue was elected to succeed the late Dr. S. J. Willis. No successor to Dr. Willis, representative of the provincial government's education department, has yet been named.

Mr. Clearihue has served on the college council since its inception in 1945 as representative of the University of British Columbia.

A well-known Victoria barrister, Mr. Clearihue is also a member of the U.B.C. board of governors.

J. G. Rutan, B.A., M.A., B.C.L., representative of the provincial government, was elected vice-chairman.

Other members of the council are J. F. K. English, municipal inspector of schools; Dr. J. M. Ewing, principal of the college; Dr. D. Buchanan, dean of arts of science faculty, University of B.C.; and Arnold Edmonds, Mrs. H. A. Beckwith and R. H. Green, representing the Greater Victoria School Board.

Leading U.B.C. Student Called 'Paragon Of Academic Virtue'

An efficient routine is the success recipe of 32-year-old Harold MacLean of Victoria, a veteran of six years' service in the R.C.A.F., winner of the Governor-General's gold medal for top marks in the graduating art class at the University of B.C.

He headed the list of 1,000 U.B.C. graduates and was foremost among 64 winners of scholarships, medals and prizes, a third of which were taken by war veterans.

A veritable paragon of academic virtue—the model student professors dream of—MacLean follows a well-ordered daily routine. He reviews his course twice daily from a card life, frowns on last-minute cramming and is in bed each night at 10:15 "so that I won't be dozy in lectures the next day."

He averaged something better than 95.3 per cent on his year's work in organic chemistry and physics.

Married, he is the father of a 19-month-old daughter, and lives in a five-room suite in the Lulu Island uterine village for married students.

One of the oldest students to graduate in the history of the university is George Bulhak, 50, Polish refugee, who is graduating with first degree standing in economics and a Bachelor of Science degree in agriculture.

In Poland, before the German occupation, Bulhak was head of the Polish Board of Trade. He fled Poland when the Germans invaded in 1939, landing in Vancouver Christmas Eve, 1940, with $25 and unable to speak a word of English.

He immediately enrolled as a student of English at U.B.C., and started agronomy research.

At the convocation tomorrow, a blind social work student will receive her Bachelor of Social Work degree. She is Isabel Beveridge, 26, of Vancouver.

Miss Beveridge commuted daily to university by streetcar without a seeing-eye dog or a cane. Her six-hour final examination was specially prepared in Braille, and she wrote it on an ordinary typewriter and required only an hour longer than other students.

Real Estate Firm Must Pay Share Of Commission

Judgment of $480 and costs was awarded Hagar and Swayne Ltd. against Mara, Bate and Co. Ltd. in County Court Tuesday afternoon by Judge C. J. Lennox.

The action affected the obligations of a real estate agent to pay a share of a commission to another agent, from whom he had obtained information concerning property which he sold and of which he had had no previous knowledge.

Basis of the claim of Hagar and Swayne Ltd. was that they had given Mara, Bate and Co. a sub-listing of property, which the latter company sold. The sum of $480 awarded Hagar and Swayne was 40 per cent of the $1,200 commission which Mara, Bate and Co. collected from H. L. Salmon for selling the Salmon property at Mount Newton.

Mara, Bate and Co. contended that they had all the information on the property previously from other quarters.

Herbert W. Davey, K.C., was counsel for Hagar and Swayne and J. Howard Harman, counsel for Mara, Bate and Co.

Grandeur Of Park Shown In New Film

The B.C. Government Travel Bureau's latest color motion picture film, "Skyline Trails," depicting the grandeur of the 171,000-acre Manning Park astride the Cascade mountains just north of the U.S. boundary, was previewed for representatives of the Trades and Industry and Lands and Forests Departments Tuesday afternoon.

The film, the work of Clarence Ferris, chief of the bureau's photographic division, will be released for general distribution.

after the sound track has been added in the east.

The Manning Park is expected to become one of the major tourist attractions of British Columbia with the opening of the Hope-Princeton Road which now is under construction. The road for a considerable length runs through the park.

Arrangements are being made for the establishment of a lodge, cabins, service station and other facilities in the park.

The film, illustrated the magnificence of the mountain peaks, deep valleys, placid lakes and brilliant alpine meadows.

Kay Trevelyan Takes Contest Lead

Kay Trevelyan again leads the Greater Victoria May-Queen contest, it was learned following a count of Tuesday's ballots. Miss Trevelyan now has 50,000 votes.

May Harris, who was leading by Monday's count, is now second with 45,500 and Dorothy Saunders is third with 41,000.

There is a difference of 4,500 votes between first and second place positions, which also applies to second and third.

Marjorie Ross is fourth with 36,000 while Jessie Robertson is only 500 behind with 35,500. Helen McCaughey and Fernie Clarke have 33,250 and 17,500 votes, respectively.

On Saturday, seven, eleven will appear on downtown streets to sell ballots for their candidates. Ballots for any candidate can be bought at May Queen headquarters, 649 Yates Street. The contest concludes Saturday.

Victoria Musician Wins Second Place

John Beckwith, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Beckwith, 1149 Oliver Street, has won second prize of $150 in cash in the 1947 Composers' Authors' and Publishers' Association competition, according to an announcement from Toronto.

Mr. Beckwith, studying at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, entered a series of piano miniatures and two songs for solo and chorus. Last month he won two firsts in Bach and Beethoven classes at the Toronto Musical Festival.

First prize in the C.A.P.A. competition was won by Clermont Pepin, Quebec-born piano virtuoso, whose talents for composition first made headlines when he was a boy of nine. This is the second year in succession the 18-year-old eastern Canadian musician has won the major competition award. He is at present studying at the Toronto Conservatory of Music under the C.A.P.A. scholarship he won last year.

Quebec Man Given Life Sentence

MONTREAL (CP)—A King's Bench court jury today convicted Paul H. Laplante, 43, of Shawinigan Falls, Que., of manslaughter for the strangulation slaying of his paramour, Madeleine Desrochers, and Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure pronounced sentence of life imprisonment.

Laplante, a married man with several children, had confessed that the Montreal stenographer died after he had strangled her with a dressing gown belt. He said Miss Desrochers, pregnant three months before her death last February, had insulted his wife and he became provoked and lost control of himself.

The body of Miss Desrochers was found in a Montreal hotel several days after her death. Laplante, who had registered the couple as Mr. and Mrs. Laplante, had returned to his Shawinigan Falls home, but left a note for police with his address.

148 Sewage Experts Hold Annual Meeting At Empress Today

Annual meeting of the Pacific Northwest Sewage Works Association opened this morning for a one-day session at the Empress Hotel. An address of welcome was given to the 148 delegates by Mayor Percy George and responded to by association president C. M. Howard, Seattle.

This morning's program included the following discussions and addresses:

A technical program with Professor F. McFryfield presiding.

Status of water pollution control in the Pacific northwest discussed by H. C. Claire, director, division of public health engineering, State Department of Health, Idaho; Curtis M. Everts, Jr., director, division of sanitary engineering, State Board of Health, Portland, Oregon; Hamilton K. Johnson, chief engineer, state pollution control commission, Olympia, Wash.; Emil C. Jensen, chief, division of public health engineering, Seattle, and R. Bowring, public health engineer, Provincial Board of Health, Victoria.

Panel discussion on sewer systems—hydraulic design, by Harry Sisler, consulting engineer, Kirkland, Wash.; structural design by George Hammond, General Engineering Co., Seattle; construction by William P. McNamara, senior civil engineer, Seattle, and further discussions by Loren Thompson, Stevens and Koon, Portland; F. C. Stewart, consulting engineer, Vancouver, and C. S. Seabrook, sewer engineer, Tacoma.

Luncheon was held in the hotel grill room with C. M. Howard presiding and an address on public relations at the local level was given by W. H. Wisely, executive secretary, Federation of Sewage Works Associations, Champaign, Illinois.

The meeting resumed at 2 with Professor R. G. Tyler, University of Washington, Seattle, presiding. An address was given on the sewer system of Vancouver by J. C. Oliver, assistant engineer, followed by an address on the effect of industrial wastes on the design, construction and operation of sewage treatment works by Carl E. Green, consulting engineer, Portland.

Discussions were held by Loren Thompson, consulting engineer, Portland; Leland Sphar, consulting engineer, Seattle, and Harrison W. Kramer, consulting engineer, Seattle.

Next addresses were given on factors involved in determining the degree of treatment required by Mr. Everts, and Kenneth H. Spies, division of sanitary engineering, Oregon State Board of Health, and second vice-president of the association.

Discussions by Mr. Claire, Mr. Jensen, Mr. Johnson and A. H. Perry concluded the afternoon meeting.

This evening the association will hold its annual dinner at which an address on dramatic highlights in public health will be given by Dr. Adolph Weinzirl, professor of public health, University of Oregon Medical School, Eugene.

Also at the dinner meeting there will be the report of the secretary-treasurer, W. P. Hughes, city engineer, Lewiston, Idaho, followed by new business, committee reports and the election of officers.

The inquest, called this morning to investigate the death of John Raymond Gaffney who died in St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday night as a result of injuries sustained in a car-train crash Saturday evening, was adjourned until next Wednesday morning at 10, when two witnesses, not available this morning, will be present to give evidence.

This morning only two witnesses were called: Richard A. Gaffney who identified the body as that of his brother, and Dr. L. W. Bassett who stated the cause of death. This evidence was necessary before burial of the body.

Serving on the jury are: John Halstead (foreman), Stephen Birus, Walter Norman, George Toms, Walter Dabnett, Gerald Stelck and James Thirwall.

Burial will take place Thursday at 3 from McCall Bros' Funeral Home with interment in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Inquest Adjourned On Accident Victim

The inquest, called this morning to investigate the death of John Raymond Gaffney who died in St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday night as a result of injuries sustained in a car-train crash Saturday evening, was adjourned until next Wednesday morning at 10, when two witnesses, not available this morning, will be present to give evidence.

Funeral Notice

The funeral of the late Conrad John Raymond Gaffney, 15th, Cdn. Field Regt., R.C.A., will take place Thursday afternoon, May 15th, at 2:00 p.m. from McCall Bros' Funeral Chapel.

Members of Britannia Branch No. 7, Canadian Legion, B.E.S., and Ladies' Auxiliary are requested to attend.

Pour First Cement At Arena Wednesday

First pouring of cement for the Memorial Arena will be done next Wednesday or Thursday it was learned today, with the columns for the first 60 feet on each side from the north end, being in the first pour.

Charles T. Hamilton, consulting engineer, today was in Victoria inspecting the job and expressed himself as well satisfied with progress being made.

After the cement is hardened on the columns, the forms for the barrel-type roof will be set and it will be poured. At the highest point of the curve, it is 63 feet from the ice surface, it was stated, and the margin of variation allowed in this is only three-eighths of an inch.

The forms for columns and the roof are set on jacks and moved along steel railroad tracks as the cement from each pouring hardens, to be ready for the next one.

The first pouring has been held up for some days because there was a delay in getting one shipment of a certain size steel. However, the steel is now on its way.

Veterans of the 88th Batt., C.E.F., 21st annual dinner will be held May 23 at Terry's Banquet Hall at 7. Members who expect to attend are asked to communicate with the secretary at 961 Wollaston Street.

Esquimalt Cut Approved In Sewer Frontage Rate

The Esquimalt Council's by-law entitled the Sewer Constuction and Rental Tax Amendment By-law, 1947, has been approved by order-in-council of the provincial government.

It provides for the appropriation of a sum from the surplus of the sewer loan sinking fund sufficient to reduce the sewer frontage rate in the corporation from 11 to nine cents per foot.

TRY
YOUR CHILD
THIS WAY

SCIENCE has proved there are certain food elements everyone needs for health. If there aren't enough of them in a child's food, serious things can happen—such as stunted growth, soft bones, poor teeth, faulty nerves, loss of appetite, defective eyesight.

Ovaline supplements the diet with elements frequently deficient in ordinary foods. Three servings of Ovaline furnish a significant portion of a child's daily requirements of Vitamins A, B, C, D, Riboflavin (B₂), and Niacin and Minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron.

In addition it provides the basic food substances—complete proteins to build muscle, nerve and body cells—high-energy foods for vitality and endurance. It thus acts as an insurance against food deficiencies that retard normal growth.

So if your child eats poorly, is thin, underpar, perhaps nervous, why not try delicious Ovaline for normal growth and better appetite.

CUT DOWN ON TAKING LAXATIVES
THIS WAY

See How Regular You Can Be
Every Morning

Try taking Carter's Pills this way: Start with 3 and set a definite time every morning. When you get regular every morning cut down to 2. After a few days, try 1.
Then try taking Carter's every other day. You may even find you can keep regular without any laxative.
You see, Carter's are so tiny you can cut down the dose—from 3 to 1—to fit the needs of your individual system. Without disappointment.
Carter's help clean out your intestinal tract not halfway, but thoroughly. They are doubly effective because made with two vegetable herbs compounded properly for thorough, easy action.
Thousands can cut down on laxative doing this Carter way. Ask for Carter's Pills by name to get the genuine at any drugstore—don't start the Carter graduated dose method tonight, and jump out of bed tomorrow feeling good.

Saanich Will Act To Combat Health, Fire, Housing Menace

Some structures occupied by humans in Saanich which are a health menace to themselves and other residents in the areas concerned and considered fire hazards, came up for discussion at the meeting of the municipal council Tuesday night when the administrative group decided to renew its efforts to combat the dangerous cases reported.

The menace to health and life from the deplorable condition of some structures in Saanich have been a source of concern to Fire Chief Joseph Law and the medical officer, Dr. J. L. Gayton, for many years and in the words of Councillor W. C. Kersey "It is too bad that we are not in a position to take drastic action in extreme cases of the sort which have been drawn to the attention of our municipal officers."

In three specific cases reported at last night's meeting the council endorsed Reeve E. C. Warren's motion that the sanitary inspector be utilized in investigations of this nature to see if the council could be provided with evidence on which to act.

It was pointed out the council could not just go out on its own and order a place demolished because of conditions viewed, but that a certain, definite procedure must be followed.

The council added $200 more for the supervision and maintenance of parks, bringing this grant total to $1,000 for the year.

Reeve Warren reported he had been personally contacted by Citizens Rehabilitation Council and D. V. A. officials in regard to the proposed reconversion of Gordon Head military camp into emergency shelter for a good number of the 100 to 600 veterans' families needing housing.

He said it was understood the camp is only to be used as an emergency, as long as that condition lasts or until the three-year Crown lease expires. The council agreed to give the go-ahead signal on the project provided its specified instructions on sanitary and other conditions affecting the camp were followed to the letter. The council voted to recommend to the zoning board that the present zoning regulations covering the area be shelved until the emergency is ended.

Fire Chief Law's April report showed there were only nine alarms in that month, five for chimney fires, two false ones, one building fire and an inhalator call.

CONVENTION DELEGATES

Reeve Warren, municipal clerk John Tribe and Councillors John Oliver and E. Cummins were named as Saanich representatives to the 44th annual convention of the B.C. Union of Municipalities at Harrison Hot Springs from September 15 to 17. The reeve and other veteran councilmen were particularly emphatic that Councillor Oliver be one representative "because he's the devil himself in a heated debate on matters concerning us and is a valuable asset to have present at the conference," said Councillor George Rudd.

Councillors J. Len Hobbs, Oliver, Kersey and Thomas Alexander were named a committee to look into the application of C.J.V.I. to construct a $15,000 radio transmitting station at Gordon Head. The committee will report back, but it was pointed out a public hearing will have to be held if the project is approved.

Councillor Hobbs was re-elected Saanich Council representative on the Royal Jubilee Hospital Board of directors.

Saanich Honors Late W. O. Wallace

Saanich Council is taking steps to honor the memory of the late W. O. Wallace, considered as Saanich's best friend and hardest worker on behalf of the municipality, it was revealed Tuesday night when the council gave first reading to a by-law to a new list of names for streets, including one to be called "Wallace Drive."

Most of the new names are for streets giving access to property recently purchased for V.I.A. homes. They include names that will live in the memory of World War II veterans.

The list of names include: San Marino Crescent, Winston Street, Normandy Road, Dieppe Road, Caen Road, Bromley Place, Sutcliffe Road, Schram Drive, Grandview Drive, Lorraine Road, Lockhaven Drive, Palmetto Place, Evergreen Place and Locarno Lane.

Irritability or sarcasm usually indicates the mind or body is sick or disordered.

Saanich In Favor Of Immigration On Certain Grounds

Opinion was varied among members of Saanich Council at their meeting Tuesday night on the type of postwar immigration policy Canada should adopt in the postwar years.

However, a slim majority vote carried adopting a resolution to the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities approving a long-range, selective immigration policy, provided first that Canadian unemployed are first taken care of and that the housing shortage remedied.

There were several views by members of the council when the question was brought up.

Reeve E. C. Warren believed the first obligation was to house Canada's veterans and that immigration then be proceeded with and with special preference given Anglo-Saxon people. He was supported on this by Councillors John Oliver and Thomas Alexander, the latter noting that "anything we can do to help the old country people the better because they have been going through hell and still are."

"IMMIGRATION CORRECT" "Immigration is the correct thing for a young country like ours and I move we endorse the immigration policy in principle, but first looking after the business of getting our veterans housed and wiping out present unemployment."

It was advanced by one member that bringing more people into the country would increase the demand of commodities, causing more employment. In the long run the situation would be about the same in unemployment.

It was at this point that Councillor George Rudd interjected with a scorching criticism of "glorified shacks that are being thrown together and called houses." He said the old legitimate builder, the chap who could build good solid houses, had been shouldered out of the picture.

He hated the thought of the same type of construction being carried on to house new Canadian citizens. The councillor deplored the fact the city was after another 100 units.

Here Councillor Alexander declared that if he had got "one of those low-rental houses when I came to Canada more than 40 years ago I would have been tickled to death."

"What, at $45 a month! Oh, no, you wouldn't," commented the reeve with a smile.

The postwar building program came in for another blast, this time from Councillor Alexander, who called his superiors and the British officer was whisked away to the Soviet Kommandatura in Berlin.

Russians Questioned British Brigadier

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Times in a Berlin dispatch said today that Brig. W. R. N. Hinde, British commandant in Berlin, was arrested last Sunday on a charge of spying on an airfield in the Russian zone, but was eventually released after questioning.

It was all a case of mistaken identity and a vigilant sentry, the Times reported.

Hinde, an ardent orthologist, was taking advantage of a sunny spring day to pursue his hobby in civilian clothes in the woods near the Russian zone.

A Soviet army sentry challenged him, called his superiors and the British officer was whisked away to the Soviet Kommandatura in Berlin.

Mary Lawson, Noted Welfare Worker, Dies

A pioneer social welfare worker in the city and charter member of the Soroptimist Club of Victoria, Miss Mary Lawson, M.B.E., 86, died Tuesday night at 857 McClure Street, after a long illness.

She was known throughout the city for her connection with the Friendly Help Association as a voluntary worker for 30 years, retiring in 1932.

Miss Lawson was the recipient of a gold medal award given to the best citizen of the year in Victoria. Retiring from office in 1932, she was presented with a framed testimonial of appreciation, from her associates in the Family Welfare Association.

In recognition of her splendid public services, Miss Lawson was awarded the decoration of the M.B.E., civil division, by His Majesty the King on Jan. 1, 1934.

Funeral arrangements which are in the hands of Hayward's B.C. Funeral Parlor, will be announced later.

Anchor, Chain Lost In River; Recovered

MONTREAL (CP)—A sister act has saved the Canadian Pacific Steamships $5,000 worth of equipment they never expected to see again.

The cargo vessel Beaverburn left here May 1 for the United Kingdom and dropped anchor 15 miles below Quebec because of poor visibility. The anchor cable parted, carrying away the anchor and 77 fathoms of chain, valued at $5,000.

Two days later the Beaverlake left Montreal and, running into similar weather conditions, dropped anchor at approximately the same spot.

As the Beaverlake swung downstream, her anchor snagged the Beaverburn's lost anchor and cable. Using a 40-gallon oil drum for buoyancy, the Beaverlake salvaged her sister ship's equipment.

Old-time Whaler Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Carl Parker Booth, 68, old-time whaling man, who spent 23 of his 40 years on the coast in that business, died here Tuesday. He is survived by his wife, one daughter and one son.

Mother Seeks Girl Who Rescued Son From Drowning Here

To the grandmother of the little blonde girl in the white dimity dress with blue and pink flowers: She got soaking, wet rescuing the four-year-old son of Mrs. Milly Fanthorpe, 1036 Redfern Street, from drowning Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Fanthorpe has written the Times in an effort to find the little girl who so bravely rescued the child, getting her frock soaking wet.

She told how the child fell off the rocks where he was playing at Foul Bay beach Sunday, landing in water considerably over his depth. Immediately the little girl, fully clothed, jumped in after him from a boat. "I'm sure she must have had some explaining to do to grandma," Mrs. Fanthorpe said.

In the confusion of seeing how much water the little boy had swallowed, she did not get the little girl's name, and the child went away. Mrs. Fanthorpe spent some time trying to find out who she was, but without success.

She said the incident occurred on the beach directly at the foot of Foul Bay Road at approximately 2 o'clock Sunday. The little girl was 11 or 12 years old. There was another little girl in the boat with the rescuer, who appeared a year or so younger, and might be a sister.

Anyone knowing who the child is can contact Mrs. Fanthorpe at E2918.

High School Art To Go On Display

The Victoria Little Centre will be the scene of an interesting Inter-schools Art Display sponsored by the Interhigh Junior Red Cross Council from May 20 to 25. Paintings, murals, drawings, handicrafts, and photography will be among the many exhibits entered by students from both junior and senior high schools of the Greater Victoria area, and also by pupils of A. W. Johns' Saturday morning classes. Exhibits will be shown daily from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m. except Thursday, when the hours will be 11 until 5.

Proceeds will go directly to the Junior Red Cross to aid in the B.C. Crippled Children's Fund and the National Service Fund for children overseas.

PLAZA THEATRE

For Deanna Durbin's "I'll Be Yours," tuneful comedy romance now at the Plaza Theatre, the associate producer was Howard "Red" Christie, former football centre from the University of California. Christie has been an assistant director and production aide at Universal, now Universal-International, since he won national gridiron recognition in 1933. For "I'll Be Yours" he served as associate to Producer Felix Jackson. Deanna co-stars with Tom Drake and William Bendix.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Warner's new melodrama titled "Nora Prentiss," with Ann Sheridan in the title role, is now at the Capitol Theatre. The film, which co-stars Kent Smith and Bruce Bennett with Ann Sheridan, also features an imposing cast of supporting players including Robert Alda, Rosemary DeCamp, John Ridgely and Robert Arthur. The screenplay is based on an original story that has been deftly transformed into a deeply moving film.

Set in San Francisco and New York backgrounds, the story relates of a love so overwhelming that it is to eclipse everything in the lives of Nora Prentiss and Dr. Richard Talbot.

Will Sing Here

Mona Paulie, lovely young mezzo-soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, who will appear on the 1947-48 Greater Artists Series announced by Hilker Attractions. Other world-renowned artists to appear during the coming season are John Charles Thomas, internationally-famous baritone; Slavenska Ballet Variante, a company of 10 dancers in spectacular European dances and beautiful classic ballets; De Paur's Infantry Chorus, composed of 35 negro voices; William Kapell, electrifying young pianist; Richard Tauber, world-famous lyric tenor; Mischa Elman, renowned violinist and Thomas L. Thomas, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera.

ATLAS THEATRE

Film fans who acclaimed the Bette Davis-Paul Henreid-Claude Rains and director Irving Rapper combine in the highly successful "Now, Voyager," a few seasons back, will be pleased to learn that the popular quartette are reunited in the new Warner Bros. drama, "Deception," currently at the Atlas Theatre.

In this highly dramatic love story, Miss Davis portrays Christine Redcliffe.

ROYAL THEATRE

A tempestuous love story weaves its way through swash-buckling adventures in RKO Radio's new technicolor production, "Sinbad the Sailor," starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Maureen O'Hara and Walter Slezak at the Royal Theatre.

In the role of Sinbad, Fairbanks falls in love at first sight with Shireen, played by Miss O'Hara, who is attached to the court of the powerful Emir of Daibul, Sinbad's mortal enemy.

Sinbad's masterful wooing does not always meet with Shireen's approval, as for instance when he abducts her from the Emir's palace and takes her aboard his ship.

DOUBLE FEATURE IS CONFUSING

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Really, Hollywood, I've had enough. My back is out of joint. My eyes hurt, and my sense of values has gone to pot. Two-feature length movies, a newsreel, a cartoon, a travelogue, and a two-minute trailer are driving me crazy.

I get the plots mixed up. I always get into the theatre in the middle of the second picture. By the time I get around there again, I have the leading man in the first picture married to the horse in the second picture.

Or my favorite actor is the hero in one picture, and after the newsreel he comes back wearing a mustache and is the villain.

People don't go to movie theatres anymore to be entertained. They go to be tortured. They emerge with their spines all out of shape and with technicolor headaches.

Let's revive single features. Or else replace theatre seats with hospital beds.

POOR SELLING POINT

After all these years, Errol Flynn is wooing the press. He hosted a luncheon for the scribes on the second day of work on his new film, "Silver River." There's plenty of pressure in New York to leave those fight-fixing scenes in "Body and Soul" on the cutting-room floor.

The State Department has quietly asked Hollywood to lay off gangster movies. The reason: Because they were interfering with Uncle Sam's efforts to sell the U.S. to a world looking for peace and security.

Faye Amerson Roosevelt is wearing a lapel pin bearing the words, "Please Do Not Handle." The pin or Faye? . . . Harry James will be back from his hand tour June 10, just two weeks before Betty Grable keeps her date with the stork. . . . Producer-director Mike Curtiz is prepping "Winter Kill" for H. Bogart and L. Bacall.

Aside to movie producers: With the California Centennial coming up, how about a film version of "Samuel Brannan and the Golden Fleece," novel of the gold rush days by Reva Scott, the San Francisco newspaperwoman?

KILROY COMPETITION

Marlene Dietrich, now in Paris making a movie, went to Verdun the other day to entertain some troops in the same theatre in which she danced for American G.I.s during the war. Entering the theatre, she saw a shapely pair of legs drawn on the wall with the words:

"Marlene Was Here." It was signed, "Kilroy."

Figures with a wallop from the Hollywood headlines: "Hollywood Spends $500,000 on Educational Films for Schools in Last Three Years."

"Hollywood Spends $12,000,000 on Two Films, 'Duel in the Sun' and 'Forever Amber'."

There's a deal cooking to film the life story of Jean Harlow. But who could they get to play the part? There will never be another Harlow.

Peggy Cummins' mother goes into Santa Monica Hospital May 8 for a major operation. . . . June Haver will become a traveling orchestra wife this summer while husband Jimmy Zito alternates between engagements in Texas and Chicago. . . . Edward Arnold's daughter, June, has set her wedding date to Eugene Ebricht for June 27.

DOMINION THEATRE

As timeless as the masterpiece that inspired it, Darryl F. Zanuck's production of Victor Hugo's immortal French classic, "Les Misérables," returns to the screen of the Dominion Theatre. Starring Frederic March and Charles Laughton, the film is another all-time hit from Twentieth Century Fox's hall of famous triumphs.

Hope Mould Will Cure Influenza

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A green-and-black soil mould that shows promise of furnishing a drug remedy for influenza was announced to the Society of American Bacteriologists here today.

There are vaccines for flu, but no drugs that specifically cure it. The mould shows some specific curative effect on chicken embryos and mice with influenza. It has not been tried on human beings.

The stuff that inhibits the virus that causes flu came from a bit of earth. Just where the earth came from the authors of the report said they did not know. It was one of numerous samples of soil from all over the world. The 47th sample yielded the mould, named LL47. About 50 research workers are keeping the laboratories going day and night on experiments with the mould. Cultivation of the original

Beauty in Saanich

There is such a difference between a house on a lot and a thoughtfully-planned home set in its own beautiful garden. Besides its green lawn, flowers and fish pool, this bungalow has all the extra—the little things that add so much—Venetian blinds, roll-screen, inside line, hardwood floor, wonderful bright tile sink in a big useful kitchen. There is a handy little sun or sewing-room too. The living-room is very attractively furnished and there are two good bedrooms. Full basement, piped furnace, separate laundry room and garage. Close to transportation on the two-mile circle. Taxes only $55.

Life Insurance Men Oppose Monopoly By Governments

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)

—Edwin C. McDonald, retiring president of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association, said today private life insurance companies had no quarrel with federal or provincial competition, but do quarrel with the idea that life insurance should become a government monopoly.

Private insurance companies also raise the question as to whether or not it is fair to have "taxpayers subsidize the Dominion government's sale of annuities," he said in an address to the association's annual meeting in its second day.

He said reference is sometimes made to great life insurance accomplishments in Russia without the services of salesmen. But at the beginning of 1945 there were 34,000 full-time life insurance agents in Russia and current plans were to have one full-time agent in every five villages.

Also heard were James Muir, general manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, and Paul F. Clark, president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Clark said the 1950's and 1960's may well experience one of the greatest periods of economic development Canada and the United States have ever known, but "the tax structure must be overhauled to give greater encouragement to venture capital."

Europe" meeting in the Royal Albert Hall, Britain's wartime prime minister declared:

"It is, of course, alleged that all advocacy of the ideal of a united Europe is nothing but a manoeuvre in the game of power politics, and that it is a sinister plot against Soviet Russia. There is no truth in this.

"The central and almost the most serious problem which glares upon the Europe of today is the future of Germany . . .

"Germany today lies prostrate, famishing among the ruins. Obviously no initiative can be expected from her. It is for France and Britain to take the lead."
